DAVIS UWC SCHOLARS PROGRAM

Uniting the World for 25 Years

"I'm trying to stimulate leaders of the future to make a difference through the grounding in education that I'm helping to give them. When I started my business career, I took my own history lesson from Princeton: I learned how leaders make a difference, in their countries, in their centuries. So I invested in leaders, and that investment helped me to be successful. . . . I'm looking to invest again in leaders of the future."

SHELBY M.C. DAVIS
Co-founder and Philanthropist

"We strive to build critical masses of globally minded young men and women on American campuses, to foster highly personal relationships between outstanding Americans and non-Americans, and to seed global networks. These networks can serve a higher calling of international understanding and common purpose among future leaders in all walks of life in our world."

PHILIP O. GEIER
Co-founder and Executive Director

25th Anniversary Reflections of the Co-founders

Now in its 25th year, the Davis UWC Scholars Program is recognized widely for its transformative impact on students from all over the world and on college campuses across the United States. As the largest and still growing privately funded international scholarship program for undergraduates, it remains committed to expanding educational opportunities while building cross-cultural understanding among and between people and places that are different from one another, in the belief that bridging differences can offer hope for a better tomorrow.

How it all began: At the very end of the 20th century, Shelby Davis was shifting from a hugely successful career on Wall Street to becoming a philanthropist, and I (as president of UWC-USA) was keenly aware of how few scholarships there were for motivated students with limited financial resources after graduating from their UWC secondary schools. Shelby and I came together from very different vantage points, but we discovered promising common ground—both believing in expanding educational opportunities for students and wanting American college campuses to become more international communities in the 21st century.

Shelby and I became partners in philanthropy to expand scholarships for young talent from around the world and to help make American college campuses more global communities. We began our shared odyssey, as many start-ups do, with a pilot program beginning in 2000 with 43 scholars on five campuses. Today, we have just over 4,500 scholars on over 100 campuses. Cumulatively, the Davis UWC Scholars Program has supported over 15,000 Davis UWC Scholars.

We believe—and still do—that future leaders from the U.S. and their counterparts from around the world will be better prepared by having lived and learned as students with those who are different from one another. Our program exemplifies this conviction of diversity. It is our profound hope that creating such connections and relationships will foster greater international understanding, build more mutual respect, and improve the chances for a more peaceful world than we know today.

We once saw a message on a bulletin board at one of the UWC schools that said something to the effect of: “There are two types of people in the world. There are dreamers, and there are doers. But what the world needs most is DREAMERS WHO DO!” Yes, dreamers who do—that’s how we think of our scholars and their potential. By investing in more and more educational opportunities for UWC graduates, we believe we are sowing seeds that are taking root and shaping lives that will contribute to making the world a better place. That is what Davis philanthropy is all about, and we are all in, believing there will be many positive returns on our investments.

The landscape of higher education has changed dramatically over the past 25 years. Institutions of higher education have come to understand that having more international perspectives benefits all aspects of college life, from classroom discussions to residential life, to student clubs and activities. As a result, the number of international undergraduate students studying in the U.S. has increased exponentially. We are proud to have been a key driver of that change, and we look forward to another 25 years of growth and impact.

25 Years of Uniting the World

This year, we proudly celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. What began in 2000 with just five partner institutions and 43 students has grown into a transformative force in global education. In the following pages, you'll hear reflections from some of the pioneering Davis UWC Scholars and the presidents of our founding partner universities, as they share insights on the program's lasting impact.

Volha Roshchanka

Volha Roshchanka (Belarus, UWC Red Cross Nordic, College of the Atlantic '04) always knew she wanted to work towards addressing environmental issues, having grown up in Belarus aware of the dangers posed by the fallout from the Chernobyl nuclear disaster. Based in part on her interest in environmental issues, Volha chose to matriculate to College of the Atlantic in Bar Harbor, Maine, for her undergraduate education. "I am very grateful to have benefited from the generosity of the Davis UWC Scholars Program to attend College of the Atlantic, where I was taught to look at environmental issues in their complex context and approach them from multiple facets."

After completing a dual master's degree in conservation biology and environmental policy at the University of Maryland, Volha now works at the United States Environmental Protection Agency in climate change mitigation. "Learning how to connect with different cultures on challenging issues was an integral part of our education at RCNUWC. Amazingly, I continue to apply my UWC experience at work." Part of Volha's duties include engaging with different countries on addressing methane emissions through the adoption of reduction in emitting technologies and practices. This work requires trying to find creative solutions while understanding different circumstances, including cultural, geopolitical, technical, and others. "I am thankful to have been taught that there is always something that unites people across different cultures and to have found a place where I can give back to society."

College of the Atlantic

"Twenty-five years ago, College of the Atlantic had the honor of being chosen as one of the first five schools to host Davis UWC Scholars. From that inaugural year to today, the Davis UWC Scholars Program has transformed the nature and quality of a College of the Atlantic education. Because the Davis UWC Scholars comprise more than 20% of our student body, their impact in our community is positively felt by all of us. They bring a diversity of cultures, ideas, histories and ambitions to our campus. The Davis UWC Scholars Program allowed COA to take a global approach to thinking about how we design and structure our bachelor of arts in human ecology. Today, because of this unique and enormously impactful scholars program, all COA graduates leave with a truly globally oriented education. We are so grateful to the Davis Foundation for creating this forward-thinking, transformational program, one that has changed the lives of individual students, for certain, but more than that, it has transformed the institutions where the Davis Scholars study. College of the Atlantic is so fortunate to have been among the first five institutions to receive, and continue to receive, this enormous annual gift of fresh energy and talent."

—Sylvia Torti, President

Longstanding UWC Head's Perspective on the Value of the Davis UWC Scholars Program

Having just retired after having been a Principal/Rektor within the UWC movement since 1999, first at Waterford Kamhlaba UWC of Southern Africa and then at UWC Robert Bosch College in Germany, I have witnessed a profound game changer thanks to the Davis UWC Scholars Program.

Before it, I witnessed so many gifted, committed young people from the widest diversity of backgrounds not having many opportunities for pursuing higher education after UWC. Some came from countries without robust university options and most could not afford attending even local or regional universities. For nearly all, the prospect of attending a university in the U.S. was totally out of reach. This all changed with the advent of the Davis UWC Scholars Program.

Now all UWC graduates can aspire to being admitted to an outstanding U.S. college or university with their demonstrated financial need fully met — a promise only possible through the Davis UWC Scholars Program. This has truly transformed the UWC movement — with 60% of all UWC graduates benefiting and over 15,000 having become Davis UWC Scholars to date.

The vision and focus of its co-founders — philanthropist Shelby Davis and international educator Phil Geier — stand at the forefront and serve as a model for the transformative impact of philanthropy. The Davis UWC Scholars Program has been — and continues — as an unimaginable gift not just to UWC graduates and to more than a hundred U.S. colleges and universities but to the future prospects of the entire world as well.

— Laurence Nodder

Colby College

"The Davis UWC Scholars have brought so much to the Colby community over the last 25 years, and their contributions and perspectives are perhaps more critical today than ever before. As much as they bring to our campus, I am equally gratified to see what they do, domestically and globally, when they finish their Colby education. They are gifted students who become remarkable citizens of the world."

— David A. Greene, President

Anna Kurien

After attending Mahindra UWC of India, Anna Kurien (India, Mahindra UWC of India, Wellesley College '04) matriculated to Wellesley College, one of the original five Davis UWC Scholars Program partner schools. "The Davis UWC Scholars Program was the reason that I was able to attend Wellesley College as an international student from India," Anna writes. After graduating from Wellesley with a degree in English and French, Anna spent a year on a Watson Fellowship learning French Creole in the West Indies.

Anna returned to the U.S. to attend law school, and spent the next 11 years as a public defender in Atlanta. "As a lawyer representing poor people charged with felony crimes, I listened deeply to my clients and their stories, and attempted daily to combat the official story of the police and the prosecution that painted my clients as violent menaces to society. I did this by zooming out to include a fuller picture of my client's life circumstances and the systemic violence that is so often obfuscated when we dehumanize people and their choices."

Today, Anna works as a legal aid attorney at Legal Aid Justice Center (LAJC). LAJC fights for racial, social and economic justice and partners with client communities to dismantle systems that create and perpetuate poverty. The UWC movement has had a profound impact on Anna and her life. "I would not have chosen the career path I did if it were not for UWC and the people I met there and the stories I heard from my classmates about their lives and the histories that shaped their own."

Wellesley College

"As one of the five original founding institutions to partner with the Davis United World College Scholars Program, Wellesley is excited to be making preparations to host a special event in July of 2025 that coincides with the 25th anniversary of the program. This shows our enduring belief in the value of the program for students, our commitment to UWC's ideal of intercultural exchange, and our dedication to its goal of educating future leaders. As a top liberal-arts college and the leading women's college, we strive to prepare students to be global citizens who will make a difference in the world. We accomplish this by providing students with multicultural perspectives backed by the skills required to connect with those with different backgrounds, talents, and experiences. Our Davis UWC Scholars are key to these efforts. They enrich our community by bringing a multitude of talents and perspectives to their work as student scholars. Based on nearly 25 years of experience, we know they will take what they have learned at the college and direct it toward meaningful change — not only in their home community but in the world."

— Paula A. Johnson, President

Ana Barfield

"I was walking around the back of the castle to pick up my mail, full of nervous anticipation, when two friends of mine came running towards me, huge smiles, carrying a thick envelope: 'Guess who got into Princeton!'" remembers Ana Barfield (Serbia/UK, UWC Atlantic College, Princeton University '04) of the time 25 years ago when she was accepted to Princeton University.

"Princeton was a perfect match for me academically, but for a long time my heart was still at Atlantic College." But that quickly changed when Ana met other Davis UWC Scholars, including Ashirul Amin (Bangladesh, UWC Red Cross Nordic, Princeton University '04), Karim Thomas (Canada, Pearson College UWC, Princeton University '04), and Peter Fabian (Slovakia, UWC Red Cross Nordic, Princeton University '04), and they became instant friends.

Ana was a sociology major, with certificates in Russian studies and Russian language and culture. During her senior year, she started studying Mandarin, and after graduating, she went to Beijing to continue studying Chinese. She was in China from 2004-2007, a time of extraordinarily rapid change, just before the Olympics in 2008 and the World Expo in 2010.

For graduate school, Ana earned a master's degree in international affairs from the Geneva Graduate Institute in Geneva, Switzerland. Since then, her professional focus has been on improving access to learning opportunities by designing and implementing innovative, high-quality, locally relevant learning solutions for underserved communities around the world. Ten years ago, she joined the Aga Khan Foundation (AKF), where she creates and promotes an inclusive culture of learning, sharing, innovation, and collaboration so that practitioners from around the world can benefit from AKF's decades-long experience and expertise in the areas of agriculture and food security, civil-society strengthening, climate resilience, early childhood development, education, health and nutrition, and work and enterprise.

"More than anything though, I try to live the values of the UWC in my daily life, in the way I interact with people, in what I teach my kids, in how I think of the world as infinitely diverse, infinitely interconnected, and infinitely fascinating, all at the same time."

Middlebury College

Middlebury, since 2000 one of the five original partner schools and since 2005 home of the program's headquarters. In recognition of this longstanding partnership, President Laurie Patton hosted a 25th anniversary celebration on campus.

Princeton University

"Princeton's 25-year partnership with the Davis United World College Scholars Program has coincided with a period of dramatic transformation at the university. On a campus that is now more international and more socioeconomically diverse than at any time in its history, Davis UWC Scholars continue to play a meaningful role in fostering dialogue and building intercultural understanding. We are grateful to Shelby Davis '58 for his commitment to UWC's global educational vision and to the students who bring that vision to life at Princeton and colleges and universities around the country."

— Christopher L. Eisgruber, President

UNITING THE WORLD

Explaining the Davis United World College Scholars Program

From its inception in 2000, the Davis United World College Scholars Program has been guided by two key strategies.

First, to fund heretofore unavailable need-based scholarship support at American colleges and universities for graduates of the United World College (UWC) schools. And second, to help transform American campuses into more diverse global communities in the belief that all students, faculty, and staff will have more valuable educational experiences by living with and learning from those who are different from themselves.

These two strategies inform the five principal goals of our program:

- » provide scholarship support for exemplary and promising students from a wide range of countries and cultures who have adopted the passion and mission of building international understanding through their education at the worldwide UWC schools;

- » build meaningful cohorts of these globally and culturally aware scholars amidst the undergraduate populations of selected partner colleges and universities across the U.S.;
- » strengthen the American undergraduate experience through international diversity on U.S. campuses—as much for the large majority of traditional American students as for the UWC scholars;
- » leverage the value of this philanthropic initiative for the long-term benefit of all on our partner campuses, to contribute to strategic shifts in institutional thinking, and to incentivize others by our example to bring even greater resources to this effort; and
- » contribute proactively to a better future for our highly volatile and interdependent world by motivating our scholars and those with whom they interact to take personal responsibility for making a positive difference around the globe.

Our program is at once practical and aspirational. It reflects the huge potential of private philanthropy to promote international understanding in dynamic and expanding ways through partner educational institutions that share our strategic vision and are committed to building greater opportunities for global learning for all their students. In essence, our program is about using philanthropic leadership to leverage increasing support for transformative impact on individuals, institutions, and the wider world.

Our program has grown immensely in numbers and impact: there are now 4,559 scholars at 106 American college and university partner campuses; they are graduates of all 18 United World College schools and come from 164 home countries. Our program and all our scholars are distinguished by the UWC movement's unique selection process—its worldwide voluntary “national committees” that promote and select the most promising youngsters from their countries to gain scholarships and opportunities, first by completing their secondary education at UWC schools and then at a wide choice of higher education at our U.S. college and university partners.

Our program would not be possible without our partnerships with the many American colleges and universities that value the UWC mission and its graduates. Essential to these partnerships are their campus liaisons who are listed by their home school at the back of this annual report.

We extend our ongoing gratitude to all who contribute their expertise and efforts to helping the Davis UWC Scholars Program realize its goals.

Twenty-Five Years of Program Growth

How the Program Works

Since 1962, thousands of young people from 175 nations have been selected by committees in their home countries to complete their last two years of high school at one of 18 United World College schools. UWC schools are located in Armenia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Eswatini, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Italy, Japan, Norway, Singapore, Tanzania, Thailand, the Netherlands, the United States, and Wales. The UWC movement works to build multinational, cross-cultural communication and understanding among all its students.

In 2000, the Davis UWC Scholars Program began providing scholarship grants to a pilot group of American colleges and universities to support UWC graduates who matriculated at these schools. These pilot schools — Colby College, College of the Atlantic, Middlebury College, Princeton University, and Wellesley College — are graduating their 22nd class of Davis UWC Scholars in 2025. Based on the success of building clusters of globally minded scholars at these pilot schools, Davis philanthropy chose to greatly expand the number of campuses and scholars in the program.

This academic year, there are 106 U.S. colleges and universities in partnership with the Davis UWC Scholars Program. For partner schools, the program provides annual grants in support of need-based scholarships for each matriculated UWC graduate for up to four years of undergraduate study. The total number of Davis UWC Scholars attending these schools has now reached 4,559 from 164 countries. The 2025 graduating class includes 1,156 students from 142 nations. To date, the program has supported 15,973 scholars.

With their education made possible through their own merits and the help of the Davis UWC Scholars Program and its partner schools, Davis UWC Scholars will go on to play important, meaningful, and often leadership roles in their communities, in their home countries, and in the world. The partner schools will have become more globally engaged and more internationally diverse educational communities.

Davis UWC Scholars by Class Year*

Where the Scholars Come From

The Davis United World College (UWC) Scholars are graduates of a family of worldwide schools that share a mission of making education a force to unite people, nations, and cultures for peace and a sustainable future. The UWC movement was founded in 1962 and now comprises a network of 18 international schools on four continents, short courses and a system of volunteer-run National Committees in more than 155 countries.

UWC offers a challenging education to an intentionally diverse group of students, placing high value on experiential learning, community service and outdoor activities, and complementing high academic standards delivered through the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program (DP) and Career-related Program (CP).

Today, more than 11,000 students from over 155 countries are studying on UWC campuses. Admission to a UWC school is independent of socioeconomic means, with over 80 percent of UWC National Committee-selected students in the International Baccalaureate DP or CP receiving full or partial financial support.

Graduates of the UWCs are eligible to become Davis UWC Scholars at over a hundred college and university campuses throughout the U.S.

The UWC Schools

UWC Adriatic, founded in 1982 near Trieste, was the first UWC outside the English-speaking world. The school's buildings and residences are spread throughout the Italian-Slovene village of Duino. All students study Italian, and participate in a social-service program with the local community.

UWC Atlantic College, the first UWC, was founded in 1962 in the 12th-century St. Donat's Castle on the south Wales coastline. The college places a strong focus on community service with a wide range of opportunities open to students.

UWC Costa Rica, near the capital San Jose, is UWC's only bilingual school, teaching the IB in English and Spanish. It became a UWC in 2006, and its approach is built on peace, environment, and multiculturalism.

UWC Changshu China opened in 2015 and offers a two-year IB diploma program as well as a one-year pre-IB preparatory program. Changshu is located in Yangtze Delta, in the Suzhou metropolitan area. The vision of the first campus in mainland China is to become a sustainable village dedicated to the fostering of peace and international understanding.

UWC Dilijan opened in 2014, with generous funding from the RVVF Foundation. The campus is set on 88 acres of land backing onto a beautiful national park. The educational program is diverse and engages with both the expansive setting and the local community. The college builds upon the movement's legacy of engaging with postconflict zones to create dialogue and a peaceful future.

UWC East Africa was established in 1969 in Moshi Kilimanjaro as the International School Moshi (ISM) and opened a second campus in Arusha in 1987. In August 2019, it welcomed its first cohort of UWC students as the second UWC school on the African continent. It is the oldest school in Africa to offer the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program (IBDP). Located in the mountainous northeast of Tanzania, the school offers unique outdoor experiences that train the students in teamwork and leadership skills.

UWC ISAK Japan opened in 2014 and became a UWC in 2017. The school was founded by an alumna of Pearson College. It offers an innovative leadership program focused on entrepreneurial skills and design thinking. Students explore Japanese culture, history, and traditions, and are encouraged to study Japanese language.

Li Po Chun UWC of Hong Kong, founded in 1992, emphasizes the Chinese traditions of proper conduct, practical wisdom, appropriate social relationships, and respect for academic learning. Li Po Chun has developed strong links with various parts of the country, especially for service activities.

UWC Maastricht was founded in 2009 in the Netherlands as a K-12 school, and the students graduate with either a IB Diploma or a CP career-related certificate.

Mahindra UWC of India, founded in 1997, is in a rural area of the western Ghats near Pune. The school has dedicated much of its land to a biodiversity park and conservation reserve, which is a study resource for all local schools and colleges. Mahindra also supports local schools with its educational program, Akshara, and community-service projects.

UWC Mostar, founded in 2006, is the first UWC with the explicit aim of contributing to the reconstruction of a postconflict society, in this case Bosnia and Herzegovina. A diversity of students from the country, the region, and abroad live, study, and volunteer together in the community, offering the host nation a working example of integrated education.

Pearson College UWC was founded in 1974 on Vancouver Island in British Columbia, Canada. The floating marine-sciences center contains a well-equipped seafront environmental-systems lab, and students conduct research above and below water at nearby Race Rocks, an ecological reserve managed by the college.

UWC Red Cross Nordic opened in 1995 in Flekke, Fjaler municipality in western Norway. Both regional and Red Cross traditions are reflected in the school's emphasis on Nordic studies and humanitarian and environmental concerns. Cooperation with the Red Cross creates service opportunities in areas such as first aid, lifesaving, youth training, and humanitarian action.

UWC Robert Bosch College opened in 2014 in Germany. Built thanks to the generosity of the Robert Bosch Foundation, the campus is a former Carthusian monastery in Freiburg. Recognized as a “green city,” it’s suited to the college’s emphasis on environmental sustainability and how technology can be used and developed to build a peaceful and sustainable future.

UWC South East Asia, founded in 1971, is the largest UWC school, with about 5,389 students ages 4–18 at two campuses in Singapore at full capacity. The school’s global-concerns program introduces concepts in leadership and organization, and all students are encouraged to develop their own initiatives along with doing community service.

UWC Thailand is situated in northern Phuket, Thailand. Representing 99 different nationalities and boasting the full IB continuum across the PYP, MYP and DP, UWC Thailand serves over 500 students from age 2 to grade 12. With a unique focus on well-being, students seek to realize their highest human potential, cultivate genuine happiness, and take mindful and compassionate action, all while engaging in unparalleled outdoor experiential education opportunities and community-based service partnerships. With a campus nestled at the foothills of a beautiful national park and within a traditional Thai village, ecological and cultural connections abound as students live the UWC experience of a lifetime.

UWC-USA was founded in 1982 on the site of historic Montezuma Castle near Las Vegas, New Mexico. Programs emphasize community engagement, wilderness experience, service, and Southwest studies. Students also study intercultural communication and mediation through the Constructive Engagement of Conflict (CEC) and global-issues programs.

Waterford Kamhlaba UWCSA became a UWC in 1981 and educates students ages 11–18. Just outside Mbabane, the capital of Eswatini, the UWC is a pan-African institution with a global outlook. Students and staff are committed to understanding and addressing the complex challenges facing Africa and the rest of the world.

St. Olaf College Wins the Davis Cup

“What you collectively are pursuing and accomplishing here at St. Olaf — intentionally seeking to build community out of difference — is inspiring. And that objective lies at the very heart of the Davis UWC Scholars Program.”

Phil Geier addressing the 2024 Honors Convocation at St. Olaf College

Having welcomed 86 Davis UWC Scholars as first-year students in 2024-25, St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota was named the 2024 winner of the Davis Cup, the annual honor given to the college or university that has matriculated the largest number of Davis UWC Scholars.

The student body at St. Olaf includes a total of 259 Davis UWC Scholars, who come from 88 nations and represent all 18 of the United World Colleges around the world. Since St. Olaf first joined the Davis Program in 2008, more than 550 Davis UWC Scholars have enrolled at the college.

“The real win is that we had the opportunity to welcome our largest cohort of amazing Davis UWC Scholars this fall,” said Jenny Howenstine, the college’s associate dean of admissions and director of international recruitment. “They are ready to build on the skills they are bringing from their UWC campuses and make a positive impact as leaders here at St. Olaf and around the world.”

Kris Thalhammer, a professor of political science, said the campus has been “energized and challenged in the best possible ways” by Davis UWC Scholars.

“In classes they often are the ones asking the big questions, offering different perspectives, and encouraging others into conversation,” she said. “The curiosity and drive that brought them to St. Olaf is infectious. We are a better place because Davis UWC Scholars have become such an integral part of our community.”

“I couldn’t be more proud of our Davis Scholars and the way they have contributed to our community in rich and diverse ways,” said Michael Kyle, vice president for enrollment and college relations. “It is certainly an honor to be the recipient of the Davis Cup, but equally important are the numerous contributions all our Davis Scholars and graduates have made to the college and in the broader communities in which they now live and work.”

In winning the Davis Cup, St. Olaf just edged out the University of Oklahoma, which matriculated 84 Davis UWC Scholars this academic year. Oklahoma had won the Davis Cup 10 out of the previous 11 years.

Former Scholars Deepening Partnerships

The Davis UWC Scholars Program has enrolled almost 16,000 Davis UWC Scholars. A number of those Davis UWC Scholars have assumed positions as a faculty or staff member at one of our partner universities, which represents a beautiful full-circle moment for the Davis UWC Scholars Program. By working at our partner universities, these Davis UWC Scholars are expanding the impact of the UWC movement even further. Each year, this new section of our annual report will shine a spotlight on two such Davis UWC Scholars.

Rojay Robert Bryan

Rojay Robert Bryan (Jamaica, UWC Southeast Asia, Bennington College '22) chose to matriculate to Bennington because of its open curriculum, and the freedom to design his own path of study. That allowed him to combine his interests in policy, agriculture, and sustainability. “My time at Bennington was nothing short of transformative. Studying public policy, sustainable agriculture, and agroecology not only gave me the tools to think critically about complex systems but also helped me build a deeper connection to the land and to myself. Bennington’s deep sense of community and focus on practical, hands-on skills made it the perfect place to explore ideas, connect with others, and prepare for meaningful work in the world.”

Currently, Rojay works at Bennington as the Assistant Director of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, a role that involves creating programs and initiatives that foster equity and belonging on campus, advising international students, and building collaborations that strengthen community. “It’s work that constantly challenges me to think expansively while staying rooted in the idea that real, lasting change begins with relationships and trust,” he notes.

Rojay is grateful to the Davis UWC Scholars Program for giving him access to an education that he could have only otherwise dreamed of. He pays that forward by working to live the UWC mission and values every day. “Whether I’m working to create spaces where everyone feels seen or simply reflecting on how to show up better in the world, I find myself returning to the principles of sustainability, connection, and service that UWC instilled in me. It’s a work in progress, but it’s a path I’m proud to be on.”

Xan Chacko

Xan Chacko (India, Mahindra UWC India, Wellesley College '05) is from a remote part of Kerala, a southern state in India. When she graduated from MUWCI in 2001, there were only five universities that were a part of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. She applied early to Wellesley, where she majored in physics and women’s studies, rowed on the crew team, and represented the Wellesley Association of South Asian Cultures in the student senate.

After graduating from Wellesley, Xan worked in finance in New York for two years before moving to the UK to pursue a dual master’s in the history of science, technology, and medicine at Imperial and University Colleges, London. She worked in science communication for three years at the Royal Institution of Great Britain, creating gifted and talented masterclasses in mathematics, a lecture series on plants that aired on the BBC (2009), and project managing the L’Oréal For Women in Science Awards (2010).

Xan then moved to California to pursue a PhD in science, technology, and society, which she completed in 2018. After earning her PhD, she had two postdoctoral fellowships; one at the University of Queensland, Australia, and another at her alma mater, Wellesley College. “Returning to Wellesley as a faculty member was a surreal and wonderful experience as many of my professors, who were still teaching, welcomed me back with open arms. I was also thrilled to reconnect with the Davis UWC scholars to whom I gave graduation addresses in 2021 and 2022.”

She currently serves as a lecturer and Director of Undergraduate Studies in Science, Technology, and Society (STS) at Brown University. In that role she teaches courses and administers the undergraduate concentration in STS. Courses she teaches include “Race, Gender, and Technology in Everyday Life,” “Invisible Labor in the Making of Science,” and “Gathering Hope, Stories for Earthly Survival.”

She is forever grateful for the Davis UWC Scholars Program and the opportunities it afforded her. Xan writes, “I had never considered applying to university in the U.S. and would have remained in India after UWC if it were not for the Davis UWC Scholars Program. I owe my career and academic trajectory to the program and am forever grateful for the opportunity that it provided. UWC was my first big step towards broadening my horizons, but without the boost from the Davis Scholarship, I would not have reached launch velocity!”

PHILANTHROPISTS HONOR ROLL

The Davis UWC Scholars Program combines the transformational philanthropy of the Davis family with donations from many others to our partner colleges and universities. Given this financial partnership, we are pleased to recognize their generous support for today's scholars and tomorrow's leaders. Each partner school was invited to submit the names of those they would like listed in this report along with the Davises. This effort at donor recognition only scratches the surface of the many who give to their alma maters in support of the financial aid awarded to our scholars. We are grateful to those who are contributing to their schools in this way, and look forward to the continuing growth of this honor roll in the years ahead.

This recognition is arranged by partner school with the information they provided. It captures the growing number of philanthropists captivated by the value of supporting our scholars — and theirs — by investing at their chosen college or university. Some have given to annual funds, indicating their interest in the Davis UWC Scholars Program. Others have given larger amounts ($10,000 or more) toward their alma mater's portion of a scholar's total financial-aid package and have been assigned scholars, sharing naming opportunities with the Davises. A few have given major endowments in support of international scholarships assigned to Davis UWC Scholars and share naming opportunities with the Davises each year. At the heart of the Davis UWC Scholars Program is "giving back," a trait we strive to see manifested over time in our scholars as they make their way in the world.

GRADUATES IN ACTION

A Mother's Example Inspires a Schwarzman Scholar

As she researches China's green investments in the Middle East for her master's thesis as a Schwarzman Scholar at China's Tsinghua University, Aya Al-Shakarchi (Iraq, UWC Robert Bosch College, Concordia '23) is looking toward the years just ahead. "I believe this decade is pivotal," she writes, "for policymakers, governments, and institutions to enact laws that make energy transition a reality."

She's also well aware of what it means to be her country's first recipient of a Schwarzman scholarship, which fully funds a one-year master's program that is focused on leadership, China and global affairs. When Aya learned she'd been selected, the first thing she did was to call home.

"My mother has been an elementary school teacher since the 1980s, teaching Arabic language to fourth graders in the same elementary school I attended," she writes. "Even during sanctions in the 1990s when teachers would earn as little as $5 a month, she never stopped showing up every day to her job and her students. She always told me giving up is never an option, and having education and a job is a path to independence and dignity."

"The Schwarzman scholarship allows me to honor what my mother withheld, and to inspire other Iraqis to apply."

At Concordia, Aya created Girls Lead for Peace, a project that builds connections between girls at Iraq high schools and female mentors in the U.S. For her own future, she hopes to develop a career in the commodity and energy markets, with a focus on energy transition in the Middle East.

"But before all this," she concludes, "I need to understand the business itself."

A STEM Leader Scans the Galaxies

Brandon Villalta Lopez (Nicaragua/Costa Rica, UWC Changshu China, Bates '25) isn't afraid to perform before an audience — or to examine mysteries of the universe. A double major in physics and neuroscience, he sings with a student a cappella group and has taken the stage in campus musicals and plays. He has also presented his scientific research at several national conferences.

A campus STEM leader, Brandon co-founded the Bates Society of Physics Students and the college Astronomy Club, and since 2023 he has led the Bates chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Chicano/Hispanics and Native Americans in Science, or SACNAS. In January he presented a poster on his thesis work at the 245th meeting of the American Astronomical Society.

"There is one shared skill set between arts and science that some people might be surprised by: performance," he writes. "I don't think I need to make the case for performance in arts, but as a scientist, there is a large number of hours we spend in front of people, talking about our work at conferences, making presentations for class projects ... performing!"

In 2023, Brandon and Associate Professor Aleks Diamond-Stanic won Bates's first Keny O'Brien Joint Adventures Award, for research they continue to do together on the evolution of galaxies.

"In particular," Brandon writes, "we're studying what is known as galactic winds or gas outflows, which are large amounts of gas ejected from the body of some galaxies. Our research looks into what makes these galaxies do that by observing the spectra from many, many galaxies. I'm working on an honors thesis that brings together these three years of work, and will hopefully make meaningful contributions to this field of study."

Helping to Shape the Changing World Of Work

With a PhD in development economics from American University, Aarti Reddy (India, Li Po Chun UWC of Hong Kong, U. Richmond '15) is building a career on illuminating and helping to guide changes in the digital economy's world of work.

"I'm currently working with WIEGO (Women in Informal Employment, Globalizing and Organizing) to coordinate research related to digital platforms and informal employment," she writes. "WIEGO is a global network that supports workers in informal employment. We are currently working to understand and document the ways in which digital technologies, and digital labour platforms in particular, are impacting informal employment, and changing labor market dynamics more broadly."

"This work will help inform WIEGO's strategy for participation during the 2025 International Labor Conference, whose agenda includes a first standard-setting discussion on 'decent work in the platform economy.' ... These discussions feed into global standards and directives that are then adopted by countries."

"I am also working as a research fellow at the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations (ICRIER), a Delhi-based policy think tank," adds Aarti, who lives in Delhi. "My part of the Digital Economy, Startups, and Innovation team includes conducting quantitative and qualitative research, engaging with policy makers, and working with stakeholders to help them make evidence-based decisions. I have co-led three iterations of a report on the 'State of India's Digital Economy.'

"I think the unifying theme in my work has been trying to bridge research with policy and program implementation, to make institutions and markets work better for individuals who they don't serve well. For example, the hope is that my current research and policy work related to labor markets would contribute to more nuanced regulation and policies that promote decent working conditions for all individuals, whether they are employed formally or informally."

Speaking Up for Insights and Inclusivity

A business and psychology double major at Brandeis, Mar Manolioudaki '26 (Greece, UWC Atlantic) was recently featured in the book Mikres Epikyndines (Little Dangerous Ones), which spotlights 100 Greek women who are driving change and who express themselves with bravery and authenticity. She is driven by a belief that integrating psychological insights into business practices in positive ways can lead to “a future where success is measured not just by profits,” she writes, “but by the positive impact businesses have on individuals, communities, and society as a whole.”

A teaching assistant and undergraduate representative for the Brandeis Business Department, Mar was part of a team that won the 2023 Asper Center Pitch Summit, hosted by the university’s International Business School. Each team was challenged to develop, within three hours, and pitch an idea for a more sustainable fashion industry. Mar’s group proposed a second-hand clothing store with a membership-based business model.

“The idea was inspired by a diverse group of people originating from Greece, Nicaragua, Italy, and China,” she notes. “The diversity of thought enabled us to develop a unique and well-rounded proposal.”

Passionate about learning and committed to inclusivity, Mar created the Disability Aware Youth Project with support from a Brandeis leadership and fellowship program. The project brings interactive workshops on disability awareness into middle schools, and she has partnered with a community disability-advocacy group to expand its reach into high schools and colleges.

“When students learned about their peers’ disabilities for the first time,” she recalls, “it opened up meaningful discussions about the needs of those peers and how others could support them. These experiences have reinforced my belief in the power of education and dialogue to drive social change.”

Animating Creativity with Kindness

When he graduated from Ringling College in 2016 with a degree in computer animation, Vladimir Stanishevskii (Russia, UWC Adriatic) had offers to join Sony Imageworks and Framestore, both major studios — but he chose to join a small company with a talented team, Neighbor Animation. He also returned to Ringling as a recruiter, offering students advice about navigating the animation industry.

When the COVID pandemic struck, Vladimir went home to Russia, where he joined the creative team of the children's animated comedy "Masha and the Bear," based on a Russian folktale, about a girl who lives in a forest and her friendship with a bear. Starting as an animator, Vladimir rose to be the show's lead animator, storyboard artist, director and screenwriter, often handling multiple roles at once.

Now married with two young daughters, Mira and Raya, Vladimir has come back to teach young animators at his alma mater. He and his wife, Masha, "are a team and we are in life together," he says. "We share love for students and take it as part of our purpose in life."

"Most of my family are educators, so I feel like I'm meant for this," Vladimir added. "I strive to teach animation with a kind heart."

For an eight-minute speech to her Hamilton College community last fall, first-year student Nana Hayrumyan '27 (Artsakh/Armenia, UWC Dilijan) shared what she had learned from an experience that is hard even to imagine. Her title: "Lessons in Gratitude from a Republic that Was Lost Overnight."

Until early 2024, Nana was a citizen of Artsakh, also called Nagorno-Karabakh, a tiny, self-declared republic in the Caucasus Mountains. Artsakh had endured periodic warfare with Azerbaijan, the nation that surrounded it; then Azerbaijan abruptly invaded, and tens of thousands of Artsakh's ethnic Armenians fled on the only road out to neighboring Armenia. As a nation, Nana's homeland ceased to exist.

"It is a republic that disappeared overnight — and that nobody spoke of," Nana said in her speech, which won a college award for an address by a first-year student. "You may wonder, what could one possibly be grateful for at such times of suffering? I recall my grandmother, as a response."

During the blockade that preceded the invasion, as her family sat together by candlelight, Nana said her grandmother "disrupted the silence with a bold statement: 'We are the happiest nation in the world.'

"Her reasoning was simple yet profound. At times of adversity, we were grateful for small joys, such as the return of electricity or a piece of chocolate, if you were lucky to find one."

"Being grateful in spite of suffering, unjust suffering, means turning poison into nectar," she told the Hamilton community. "You become thoughtful of others. ... Generosity becomes the natural extension of your gratitude."

"In the world we have, your choice matters the most now," Nana concluded. "Let's choose gratitude — and in that choice, find the strength to make a difference in other people's lives."

Connecting Kosovars Abroad with Their Homeland

As the Republic of Kosovo's deputy minister for foreign affairs and diaspora, "my key priority is to strengthen the connection between Kosova and its diaspora communities globally," writes Liza Gashi (Kosovo, UWC Costa Rica, Wartburg '13), who uses the Albanian spelling "Kosova" for her homeland.

"I lead efforts in public diplomacy, economic diplomacy, and diaspora engagement," she explains. "Under my leadership, we have successfully developed and implemented strategic tools and policies to ensure the active involvement of the diaspora in Kosova's development."

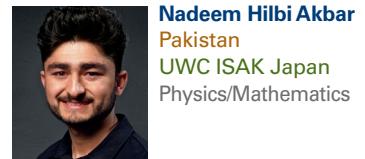

"I have also been a driving force behind global diaspora engagement initiatives, ensuring that the contributions and voices of our people abroad are fully recognized and integrated into Kosova's national agenda," adds Liza, who earned a master's degree in public administration at Arizona State. "One notable initiative we have spearheaded is the 'Diaspora Dialogues,' a platform to engage diaspora communities worldwide and encourage their active participation in Kosova's growth."

Other initiatives Liza has led, aiming to strengthen the links between her country and the world, include a Citizen Diplomacy Fellowship, connecting young professionals with the homeland; Made in Kosova (made-in-kosova.net), which showcases the country's economic and cultural potential; ShijoKosoven, connecting young Kosovars abroad with what's happening in the country; and Ulpiana Forum (ulpianaforum.org), an international project "dedicated to harnessing the collective power of diaspora communities." Liza also founded the National Committee of Kosova for UWC.

"After emerging from war in 1999, Kosova had few established governance structures and limited experience with democracy," she notes. "We had to start from scratch, learning together how to adapt and succeed. Today, I am actively contributing to Kosova's efforts to strengthen democracy, leveraging the skills and knowledge I gained through my education."

Devising a Safer Way to Find Land Mines

As his family endured two months of Russian occupation in the Kherson region of southern Ukraine, “hearing explosions and constantly fearing for their life,” Ivan Dudiak (Ukraine, UWC East Africa, Harvey Mudd ’26) began to wonder if drones could be used to safely scan his homeland for land mines.

De-mining in Ukraine currently relies on manual work by combat engineers, which is costly and dangerous. Ivan and a fellow student attached a modular system to existing drones for rapid scanning of minefields, in a project they named Sokil, “falcon” in Ukrainian.

“The Russian invasion of Ukraine and, in particular, the destruction in my Kherson region prompted me to look for ways to recover the natural beauty of my home,” Ivan writes. “I think we have a responsibility to help the place we’re from, and only those born there would care deepest about it.”

Last summer the Sokil team, now grown to 10 members, field-tested their newest prototype and won “Best Student Presentation” at a New York conference on systems and technologies for remote sensing applications. “We are a technically oriented team with a big heart,” Ivan notes, “to use our skills toward ideas that matter and can save lives.”

His family is now relatively safe in western Ukraine, and “I’ve been away from my country and my people for three years already,” Ivan adds. “Sokil makes me feel like my team and I are making tangible steps to make the world a better place.”

“I am grateful to Harvey Mudd’s community and education for inspiring me to use my talents and skills to the benefit of society, and I’m grateful to UWC for building an understanding of the importance of using my education to create a positive impact at home and around the world.”

Building a Generation of Change-Makers

When he was in seventh grade, Cuauhtémoc Cruz Herrera (Mexico, UWC-USA, Macalester '19) discovered a passion for math — and that kindled a life's goal "of improving the quantity and quality of educational opportunities for all students," he writes, "especially public-school students like me."

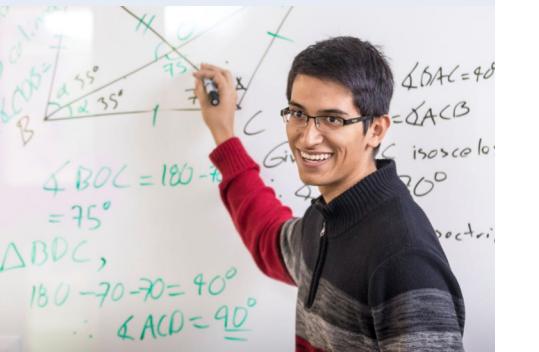

He has been delivering on that goal ever since.

The summer after his first year at Macalester, Cuau returned to his home state of Jalisco with a small college grant to start a summer math program for public schools. He built that into a peer-to-peer training initiative, through which older students who had been through his program helped younger kids; and then into an NGO he titled Integración Matemática, whose website is set up to identify high-potential students.

In his senior year at college, Cuau took on a job as director of mathematics education for Jalisco. In that position, he has since created 11 math programs that have benefited more than 400,000 students in the state.

"The members of this network have access to 77 programs, such as academic scholarships, networking events, international competitions, summer programs, guidance on their social projects, and one mentor for each member," writes Cuau, who in 2022 earned a Harvard master's degree in education policy and analysis. "The object is to create a generation of change-makers who inspire others to become change-makers."

"I am also currently starting a peer-to-peer math tutoring platform with a UWC friend, Alejandro Soler, and 120 of my former students," adds Cuau, who last year became Jalisco's general director of extracurricular education. "This platform is called Proyecto Daskalos (proyectodaskalos.com), and the goal is to expand the work I have done in Jalisco to the rest of Mexico and to all Latin American countries in the next three to five years."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"Case Western Reserve University values the leadership qualities and global perspectives that our 154 Davis UWC Scholars bring to our diverse, vibrant campus community. These scholars are deeply embedded and engaged in all aspects of campus life and, importantly, with one another. Thanks to their experiences of living and learning with other global students prior to their arrival at CWRU, they enhance our students' experiences both in and out of the classroom.

"Recognizing the tremendous positive impact of our Davis UWC Scholars on the university, our enrollment management team has cultivated strong relationships with UWC schools around the world — and with each recruitment cycle, our team strives to visit each school, meet with counselors, and present to prospective students. We are a proud partner of the Davis UWC Scholars Program and we are committed to helping to build successful futures for these promising young people."

Advancing Science and Building Community

A research fellow in cardiology for the past three years at the Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor, Maine, Raheem Khadour (Syria, UWC Mahindra College, College of the Atlantic '25) has been chosen to present his work at two national science conferences, and is a contributing author to a paper published in the Journal of Immunology. He also won first place for the presentation of his research at a statewide student showcase convened by the Bioscience Association of Maine.

At the Jackson Laboratory's Rosenthal Lab, "my main project has focused on validating and establishing a mouse model for a disease called heart failure with preserved ejection fraction (HFpEF)," Raheem writes. "I have been learning and practicing skills such as echocardiography, microscopy, sectioning and staining, and more to pursue this research."

Raheem, who hopes to become a heart surgeon, also won grant support to pursue research at the Bar Harbor lab "on preserving the adolescent development stage in mice to prolong life expectancy and research on the effects of Anti-PD1 immune checkpoint inhibitor cancer therapy on the heart."

The journal article, he writes, "describes a new mouse model genetically engineered to study severe heart and muscle inflammation (myocarditis and myositis) triggered by anti-PD-1 cancer therapy, an immune checkpoint inhibitor. This model helps uncover the immune mechanisms behind these life-threatening side effects, providing insights for better diagnosis and treatment strategies."

Raheem also started a coffee house on campus, in collaboration with the college. "I find great value in creating community spaces where people gather together. I think the world is too chaotic and we rarely make time to enjoy each other's company, or even make time to have a conversation that could help us understand each other."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"Hamilton College's entire culture and community are organized around the power of a liberal-arts education, but we can't fulfill our mission to prepare students for lives of meaning, purpose, and active citizenship if we don't embrace the creative diversity of our nation and our world. We are grateful to the Davis UWC Scholars Program for making possible the education of the talented scholars who add immeasurably to the rich fabric of our global community. And Hamilton benefits from the partnership in other ways: both our chief academic officer and our chief student affairs officer are alumni of United World Colleges, further enriching our commitment to prepare our students to be super-powered citizens of the world."

Working to Energize Uganda's Future

After he had earned bachelor's and master's degrees in petroleum engineering at the University of Oklahoma, Raymos Kimanzi '17 (Uganda, Waterford Kamhlaba UWC) felt torn. He wanted to build more experience in the U.S.'s well-developed oil and gas industry — but he also longed to be back home.

He decided home was where he should be.

"Uganda had discovered oil and gas resources," Raymos writes, "and there was a plan to invest in the development of those resources for the benefit of the country's economy. I wanted to be part of this progressive plan." He now works in Uganda for the multinational firm TotalEnergies EP.

In his country, Raymos writes, "the energy industry is dynamic and ever-changing with a shift to renewable energy, which will be the focus over the next decade. TotalEnergies invests as well in renewable energy, including solar and hydro power in Uganda. I plan to slowly shift into renewable energy research over the next few years with the company."

"Everyone who knows Raymos knows how much joy he brings to others," notes Craig Hayes, the University of Oklahoma's liaison to the Davis UWC Scholars Program. "He approaches every challenge with a smile."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"Earlham College's Davis United World College Scholars bring a treasured international dimension to our campus and represent the best qualities of our academic community. Our current group of 70 Davis UWC Scholars hails from 17 of the 18 UWC campuses and represents 48 countries. They are prepared, motivated, thoughtful, and caring, and they are forward-thinking. They serve across our campus community as elected members of student government, resident assistants in the residence halls, and teaching assistants in classes, and they consistently garner awards for their engagement and academic achievement here at Earlham and beyond. Davis UWC Scholars are always among our inductees into Phi Beta Kappa and other honors societies, and are among our most active student participants in research and service here on campus, across the U.S. and internationally. Earlham is proud to be a UWC-participating school and even prouder of our Davis UWC Scholars."

Mining the Past to Illuminate the Present

Strongly interested in how today's nations are shaped by their history, Amherst senior

Shreya Joshi (India, UWC Mahindra College) has put her curiosity to work in a number of archival research projects, both on campus and abroad.

"In my first semester here, I managed to land a job as an archival assistant," writes Shreya, a double major in history and political science who has helped three of her professors advance their research. "I have worked on over a dozen projects relating to a range of topics and materials, including the diaries of Sarah Archer Amherst, the wife of India's Governor General from 1823-1828."

The summer after her sophomore year, Shreya and five fellow students did archival research in London and Birmingham on the experiences of Black nurses, most of them Commonwealth migrants, who worked within the UK's National Health Service from 1960 to 1983. The students co-authored a journal article that has been peer-reviewed and accepted for publication, on how nurses used friendship-centered strategies to navigate the NHS hierarchy.

Last summer, Shreya traveled to New Delhi to do archival research for her thesis on the early 20th-century rise of Hindu nationalism in her home nation. "Having spent most of my life in India," she writes, "I have seen Narendra Modi's rise to power over the last decade alongside the increase in hateful rhetoric and violence against minority groups. I recognize that India's contemporary politics are a symptom of a much larger historical trajectory."

Also passionate about photography, Shreya says she hopes to continue doing research in the future, "while also thinking of its applicability by working as a policy analyst or in the field of human rights/international law."

"At Methodist University, we are privileged to have 83 Davis UWC Scholars, representing 41 different countries. We are committed to global education, and the Davis UWC Scholars contribute to the global culture on our campus in a multitude of ways — they are student government leaders, members of the residence hall staff, student employees in many offices on campus, student athletes, and members of a wide variety of student organizations. They enrich the campus experience for each other and for our domestic students, as well as our faculty and staff."

"I was honored two years ago to have the opportunity to visit Red Cross Nordic UWC, where I saw firsthand what makes UWC and its students special. I was impressed with the academic rigor and the high level of English proficiency, but what impressed me most was the spirit of caring community that I witnessed. And UWC students bring that community spirit to our campus as well. We are grateful, at MU, to benefit from the cultural diversity, intellect, compassion, and genuine desire to be part of the solution to the challenges of this fragile world that our Davis UWC Scholars embody every day."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"Davis UWC Scholars at Pomona College bring an invaluable richness to our classrooms and residence halls, offering a multinational perspective that profoundly enhances our campus environment. Their prior international experience at UWC schools equips them with a level of maturity and insight that allows them to thrive within Pomona's diverse and dynamic setting.

"Educating our students for global citizenship, leadership, and collaboration is more critical than ever.

When we envision the future leaders who will excel in a globalized world, it is the Davis UWC Scholars who embody the qualities we seek to cultivate in all our students: inquisitiveness, self-awareness, openness, reflection, curiosity, and a deep interest in others. These are the traits essential for meaningful engagement with the broader world.

"Our partnership with the Davis Foundation through the Davis UWC Scholars Program is integral to our vision of global education. Thank you for supporting the education of these exceptional students at Pomona College. Their presence enriches our entire community and serves as a model for what it means to be truly globally engaged and connected."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"As another record cohort of Davis UWC Scholars — 38 first-year students and 120 total students — joins the Whitman College community, we know that each of these individuals, like their predecessors, will contribute significantly to the educational and cultural makeup of our campus. The scholars lead student clubs, building relationships that cross national, linguistic, and cultural boundaries. They inspire with their Projects for Peace, addressing complicated, real-world challenges with passion and intellect. They share from their backgrounds and experiences, adding global perspectives that strengthen our liberal-arts curriculum. Whitman is committed to preparing all our students for futures in an increasingly complex and interdependent world, and Davis UWC Scholars greatly enrich our learning community. As we look to the future, we are honored to continue welcoming these dynamic students from around the world."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"As president of Lewis & Clark, I am deeply honored to write in gratitude and appreciation for the cohort of Davis UWC Scholars on campus. We are particularly honored this year to report that, for the first time, we have over 100 Davis UWC Scholars thriving as engaged members of our campus community. It is no exaggeration to say that the breadth and vitality of our campus culture is not simply enriched by the presence of the UWC Scholars, but it is in many ways shaped by these remarkable students. They are active leaders in student government, in student organizations, and on our sports teams. Our faculty are thrilled at the preparation they show upon arriving to campus, and by the immense contributions they make to classroom discussions. We consider ourselves to be a truly international community, and literally every facet of our institution is shaped and enhanced by the presence of our Davis UWC Scholars. Thank you for your generous support."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"When I came to St. Lawrence in 2021 to begin my presidency, the Davis UWC Scholars Program was new to me. As I learned more about the program and, more importantly, interacted with our many scholars, our partnership has become a source of tremendous pride and inspiration. Our St. Lawrence Davis UWC Scholars embody the UWC mission to make education a force to unite people from all backgrounds for a peaceful and sustainable future, and model the UWC values of promoting intercultural and international understanding in classrooms, student organizations, and events across campus.

"Davis UWC Scholars' passion for intellectual exploration, willingness to take risks and ask challenging questions, and holding true to their guiding sense of purpose speaks to everything we aspire to teach all our students. As we gratefully recognize the incredible impact of our 20-year partnership with the Davis UWC Scholars Program and the benchmark of having 100-plus scholars on our campus, suffice it to say that their presence here not only helps us make our institution better, but also helps us be better people. The world needs more Davis UWC Scholars, and we are privileged to be part of their educational journey."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"We have entered into our 20th year of partnership with the Davis United World College Scholars Program. Here at Skidmore, I am proud to say that we are weathering these sometimes challenging times together, adapting to each other's perspectives and learning to remain "in community" despite (and indeed because of) our varied experiences and array of viewpoints.

"As ever, Skidmore's Davis UWC Scholars are key leaders for our campus, and we expect nothing less of them. They raise voices of concern, participate in campus conversations, and add a spirit of engagement and care to our community. Together with the Davis UWC Scholars Program, we support them in learning to listen, to speak up, and to create the positive change they wish to see in the world."

MARC C. CONNER, PRESIDENT
Skidmore College

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

"The Davis UWC Scholars Program and its scholars are committed to building cross-cultural understanding among campuses throughout the world. This viewpoint aligns with Wartburg College's mission and strategic plan, specifically with initiatives to build and support a diverse and culturally inclusive community where all students, faculty, and staff are known and valued. Davis UWC Scholars enrich our campus by sharing their unique experiences, perspectives, and gifts with our living and learning community. Their passion and energy inspire all students to develop the necessary knowledge, skills, and sensitivities to prepare for positions of responsibility and leadership to effect transformative change. On behalf of our Wartburg family, I express my deep gratitude for your long-standing partnership and support that allows these students to enroll and thrive at Wartburg College."

REBECCA EHRETSMAN, PRESIDENT
Wartburg College

Applying to Become a Partner School

The Davis UWC Scholars Program reviews requests on an annual basis from colleges and universities interested in becoming partner schools. To be considered, a letter of request from the institution's president should be submitted, explaining in detail why their school would be a good candidate for the program. An important prerequisite for a candidate school is to have already made recruiting trips to several of the UWCs (whether in person or virtually), have a proven track record of successfully recruiting and matriculating graduates from United World College schools at the time of application, and are committed to meeting full demonstrated need-based aid for all admitted UWC graduates. It's essential that applicant schools are in alignment with the Davis UWC Scholars Program's key goal of the internationalization of the U.S. undergraduate experience by building clusters of globally aware UWC graduates on their domestic campuses (offshore campuses and affiliates are ineligible). Letters may be submitted at any time during the academic year, but no later than May 31, as decisions are finalized by August each year.

The Davis UWC Scholars Program makes grants to institutions only — not to individual students. Grants are awarded based on financial need to eligible United World College graduates enrolled at one of the partner schools.

How Other Philanthropists Can Invest

Philanthropists who want to help bring the world to U.S. campuses—especially their own alma maters—are invited to become a part of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. Philanthropist Shelby Davis created the program 25 years ago, and since then it has grown to become the world's largest international scholarship program for undergraduate study.

Over one hundred American colleges and universities have been selected to partner with this major philanthropic investment to transform American campuses by providing scholarships to students from more than 164 countries to attend these schools for their undergraduate degrees.

The scholarships are awarded to students who are proven winners. As 15- or 16-year-olds, they won national competitions in their home countries that allowed them to complete their last two years of high school at one of the premier United World College schools. They have demonstrated their leadership, they are informed and engaged in world issues, and they have been admitted to some of the finest institutions of higher learning in the U.S. Everyone at these campuses—students, faculty, staff, and the surrounding community—benefits from this exposure and the global networking that will inevitably link our country's future leaders with those of many other nationalities.

The Davis United World College Scholars Program is a genuine partnership—Davis philanthropy provides need-based aid for up to four years of undergraduate study to each of the partner schools. Grant funds are awarded to our partner schools in support of their own financial aid awards for individual students and never in direct support of particular beneficiaries. As partner schools are expected to meet each of their scholars' full demonstrated need, these scholarship packages are often quite substantial—making your additional philanthropy most welcome.

Other philanthropists have already chosen to participate. They have invested in a proven and exciting global program by co-funding a portion of these scholars at their alma maters or at other partner schools of particular interest to them. This opportunity exists for you as well. Share a naming opportunity for a scholar and their four-year undergraduate degree. Your philanthropy, in concert with Davis philanthropy and your favorite school, will help create a three-way partnership for a better world.

For more information, please visit www.davisUWCscholars.org.

“Our idea is to instill the UWC mission of making education a force to unite people, nations, and cultures into the lives of everyone on our partner school campuses — in the labs and classrooms, on the playing fields, in the residence halls, and in the surrounding communities.”
