PROGRAM

“I’m trying to stimulate leaders of the future to make a difference through the grounding in education that I’m helping to give them. When I started my business career, I took my own history lesson from Princeton: I learned how leaders make a difference, in their countries, in their centuries. So I invested in leaders, and that investment helped me to be successful. . . .I’m looking to invest again in leaders of the future.”

SHELBY M. C. DAVIS
Co-founder and Philanthropist

“We strive to build critical masses of globally minded young men and women on American campuses, to foster highly personal relationships between outstanding Americans and non-Americans, and to seed global networks. These networks can serve a higher calling of international understanding and common purpose among future leaders in all walks of life in our world.”

Embracing Hope: Why the Davis UWC Scholars Program

In today's world, where cynicism too often prevails—and where international students pursuing higher education in the United States face increasing uncertainty—hope matters.

Hope is not naïve optimism. As Jamil Zaki, director of the Stanford Social Neuroscience Lab, observes, cultivating hope requires three essential elements: the ability to envision a better future, the willpower and motivation to move toward that future, and a clear path for getting there.

The Davis United World College Scholars Program has long been grounded in this understanding of hope. By expanding access to higher education through sustained partnerships with American colleges and universities, the program helps talented students envision possibility, supports their determination to pursue it, and provides a concrete pathway forward. In doing so, the program reflects a steady commitment to individuals and institutions that share the willpower and motivation to create positive change in themselves and in the world.

Since its founding in 2000, the Davis United World College Scholars Program has been guided by two key strategies. First, to fund heretofore unavailable need-based scholarship support at American colleges and universities for graduates of the United World College (UWC) schools. Second, to help transform American campuses into more diverse global communities, grounded in the belief that all students, faculty, and staff benefit from living with and learning from those whose experiences and perspectives differ from their own.

Philanthropists Shelby and Gale Davis and International Educators Phil and Amy Geier founded the program in 2000 and remain fully engaged with its original and ongoing purposes of building community out of differences through education.

These two strategies inform the five principal goals of our program:

- » provide scholarship support for exemplary and promising students from a wide range of countries and cultures who have embraced the UWC mission of building international understanding;
- » build meaningful cohorts of globally and culturally aware scholars within the undergraduate populations of selected partner colleges and universities across the United States;
- » strengthen the American undergraduate experience through international diversity on U.S. campuses—for the benefit of traditional American students as much as for UWC scholars;
- » leverage this philanthropic initiative for the long-term benefit of partner campuses, contributing to strategic shifts in institutional thinking and encouraging others to commit greater resources to this work; and
- » contribute proactively to a better future for our highly volatile and interdependent world by motivating scholars—and those with whom they interact—to take personal responsibility for making a positive difference.

Our program is both practical and aspirational. It reflects the extraordinary potential of private philanthropy to promote international understanding through dynamic partnerships with educational institutions that share our strategic vision and are committed to expanding global learning opportunities for all students. At its core, the program uses philanthropic leadership to leverage increasing support for transformative impact on individuals, institutions, and the wider world.

The Davis UWC Scholars Program has grown significantly in both scale and impact. Today, there are more than 4,600 scholars across 100+ American college and university partner campuses. These scholars are graduates of all 18 United World College schools and represent 163 home countries. They are distinguished by the UWC movement's unique, volunteer-driven selection process, through which national committees identify and support young people of exceptional promise to pursue secondary education at UWC schools and higher education at partner institutions in the United States.

This work would not be possible without the deep partnerships we share with American colleges and universities that value the UWC mission and its graduates. Central to these partnerships are campus liaisons, whose commitment and expertise are acknowledged at the back of this report. We extend our sincere gratitude to all who contribute to advancing the goals of the Davis UWC Scholars Program and to sustaining a vision of higher education rooted in hope, purpose, and shared responsibility.

Twenty-Six Years of Program Growth

How the Program Works

Since 1962, thousands of young people from 175 nations have been selected by committees in their home countries to complete their last two years of high school at one of 18 United World College schools. UWC schools are located in Armenia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Eswatini, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Italy, Japan, Norway, Singapore, Tanzania, Thailand, the Netherlands, the United States, and Wales. The UWC movement works to build multinational, cross-cultural communication and understanding among all its students.

In 2000, the Davis UWC Scholars Program began providing scholarship grants to a pilot group of American colleges and universities to support UWC graduates who matriculated at these schools. These pilot schools—Colby College, College of the Atlantic, Middlebury College, Princeton University, and Wellesley College—are graduating their 23rd class of Davis UWC Scholars in 2026. Based on the success of building clusters of globally minded scholars at these pilot schools, Davis philanthropy chose to greatly expand the number of campuses and scholars in the program.

This academic year, there are 106 U.S. colleges and universities in partnership with the Davis UWC Scholars Program. For partner schools, the program provides annual grants in support of need-based scholarships for each matriculated UWC graduate for up to four years of undergraduate study. The total number of Davis UWC Scholars attending these schools has now reached 4,643 from 163 countries. The 2026 graduating class includes 1,084 students from 139 nations. To date, the program has supported 17,220 scholars.

With their education made possible through their own merits and the help of the Davis UWC Scholars Program and its partner schools, Davis UWC Scholars will go on to play important, meaningful, and often leadership roles in their communities, in their home countries, and in the world. The partner schools will have become more globally engaged and more internationally diverse educational communities.

Davis UWC Scholars by Class Year*

Where the Scholars Come From

The Davis United World College (UWC) Scholars are graduates of a family of worldwide schools that share a mission of making education a force to unite people, nations, and cultures for peace and a sustainable future. The UWC movement was founded in 1962 and now comprises a network of 18 international schools on four continents, short courses, and a system of volunteer-run National Committees in more than 150 countries.

UWC offers a challenging education to an intentionally diverse group of students, placing high value on experiential learning, community service and outdoor activities, and complementing high academic standards delivered through the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program (DP) and Career-related Program (CP).

Today, more than 12,000 students from over 150 countries are studying on UWC campuses. Admission to a UWC school is independent of socioeconomic means, with over 80 percent of UWC National Committee-selected students in the International Baccalaureate DP or CP receiving full or partial financial support.

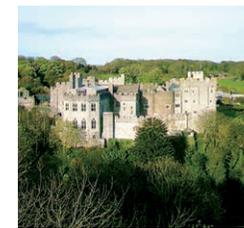

Graduates of the UWCs are eligible to become Davis UWC Scholars at over a hundred college and university campuses throughout the U.S.

The UWC Schools

UWC Adriatic, founded in 1982 near Trieste, was the first UWC outside the English-speaking world. The school's buildings and residences are spread throughout the Italian-Slovene village of Duino. All students study Italian, and participate in a social-service program with the local community.

UWC Atlantic College, the first UWC, was founded in 1962 in the 12th-century St. Donat's Castle on the south Wales coastline. The college places a strong focus on community service with a wide range of opportunities open to students.

UWC Costa Rica is the only UWC in Latin America and the Caribbean, offering the IB in Spanish and English. Their mission and commitment to sustainability shape the experience with courses, CAS activities, and outings focused on learning from nature and local communities. The current campus in Santa Ana blends city life with nature; its new campus in San Isidro, Heredia, will feature a learning space fully integrated with Costa Rica's vast biodiversity.

UWC Changshu China opened in 2015 and offers a two-year IB diploma program as well as a one-year pre-IB preparatory program. Changshu is located in Yangtze Delta, in the Suzhou metropolitan area. The vision of the first campus in mainland China is to become a sustainable village dedicated to the fostering of peace and international understanding.

UWC Dilijan opened in 2014, with generous funding from the RWFF Foundation. The campus is set on 20 acres of land backing onto a beautiful national park. The educational program is diverse and engages with both the expansive setting and the local community. The college builds upon the movement's legacy of engaging with postconflict zones to create dialogue and a peaceful future.

UWC East Africa was established in 1969 in Moshi Kilimanjaro as the International School Moshi (ISM) and opened a second campus in Arusha in 1987. In August 2019, it welcomed its first cohort of UWC students as the second UWC school on the African continent. It is the oldest school in Africa to offer the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program (IBDP). Located in the mountainous northeast of Tanzania, the school offers unique outdoor experiences that train the students in teamwork and leadership skills.

UWC ISAK Japan opened in 2014 and became a UWC in 2017. The school was founded by an alumna of Pearson College. It offers an innovative leadership program focused on entrepreneurial skills and design thinking. Students explore Japanese culture, history, and traditions, and are encouraged to study Japanese language.

Li Po Chun UWC of Hong Kong, founded in 1992, emphasizes the Chinese traditions of proper conduct, practical wisdom, appropriate social relationships, and respect for academic learning. Li Po Chun has developed strong links with various parts of the country, especially for service activities.

UWC Maastricht was founded in 2009 in the Netherlands as a K-12 school, and the students graduate with either a IB diploma or a CP career-related certificate.

UWC Mahindra, founded in 1997, is in a rural area of the western Ghats near Pune. The school has dedicated much of its land to a biodiversity park and conservation reserve, which is a study resource for all local schools and colleges. Mahindra also supports local schools with its educational program, Akshara, and community-service projects.

UWC Mostar, founded in 2006, is the first UWC with the explicit aim of contributing to the reconstruction of a postconflict society, in this case Bosnia and Herzegovina. A diversity of students from the country, the region, and abroad live, study, and volunteer together in the community, offering the host nation a working example of integrated education.

Pearson College UWC was founded in 1974 on Vancouver Island in British Columbia, Canada. Among many features of campus life, students benefit from a rich biodiverse landscape offering land and sea-based learning opportunities, including an observatory and hiking trails. The floating marine-sciences center contains a well-equipped seafront environmental systems lab, and students conduct research above and below water at nearby Race Rocks, an ecological reserve managed by the college.

UWC Red Cross Nordic opened in 1995 in Flekke, Fjaler municipality in western Norway. Both regional and Red Cross traditions are reflected in the school's emphasis on Nordic studies and humanitarian and environmental concerns. Cooperation with the Red Cross creates service opportunities in areas such as first aid, lifesaving, youth training, and humanitarian action.

UWC Robert Bosch College opened in 2014 in Germany. Built thanks to the generosity of the Robert Bosch Foundation, the campus is a former Carthusian monastery in Freiburg. Recognized as a "green city," it's suited to the college's emphasis on environmental sustainability and how technology can be used and developed to build a peaceful and sustainable future.

UWC South East Asia, founded in 1971, is the largest UWC school, with over 6,000 students on two campuses in Singapore. The school's global-concerns program introduces concepts in leadership and organization, and all students are encouraged to develop their own initiatives along with doing community service.

UWC Thailand is situated in northern Phuket, Thailand. Representing 99 different nationalities and boasting the full IB continuum across the PYP, MYP and DP, UWC Thailand serves over 500 students from age two to grade 12. With a unique focus on well-being, students seek to realize their highest human potential, cultivate genuine happiness, and take mindful and compassionate action, all while engaging in unparalleled outdoor experiential education opportunities and community-based service partnerships. With a campus nestled at the foothills of a beautiful national park and within a traditional Thai village, ecological and cultural connections abound as students live the UWC experience of a lifetime.

UWC-USA was founded in 1982 on the site of historic Montezuma Castle (now known as the Davis International Center) near Las Vegas, New Mexico. Programs emphasize experiential learning expeditions off-campus, wilderness experience, and exploration of the rich history and culture of the United States Southwest. Students also study intercultural communication and conflict transformation through the Constructive Engagement of Conflict (CEC) and global-issues programs.

Waterford Kamhlaba UWC of Southern Africa became a UWC in 1981 and educates students ages 11–18. Just outside Mbabane, the capital of Eswatini, the UWC is a pan-African institution with a global outlook. Students and staff are committed to understanding and addressing the complex challenges facing Africa and the rest of the world.

CELEBRATING OUR PARTNERS

The Davis UWC Scholars Program is built on strong, sustained partnerships with universities that share a commitment to enrolling, supporting, and learning from UWC graduates. While past annual reports have highlighted this commitment through the Davis Cup, this section broadens the lens to reflect the many ways partner institutions and individuals contribute to the success of the program. The recognitions that follow celebrate both quantitative growth and qualitative impact, acknowledging institutions that demonstrate momentum in enrollment, individuals and partners whose efforts have strengthened our work, and universities whose engagement reflects longevity, global reach, and deep connection to the UWC movement. Together, these recognitions underscore the collaborative nature of the program and the diverse forms that partnership can take.

University of Oklahoma Wins the Davis Cup

Having welcomed 75 Davis UWC Scholars as first-year students in fall 2025, the University of Oklahoma in Norman, Oklahoma was named the 2025 winner of the Davis Cup, the annual honor given to the college or university that has matriculated the largest number of first-year Davis UWC Scholars. This marks the 11th time in the past 13 years that OU has received the award.

OU enrolls the highest number of Davis UWC Scholars in the United States, with a total of 329 scholars representing more than 100 countries. While there are more than 100 U.S. colleges and universities participating in the Davis UWC Scholars Program, OU remains the only public university in the nation to have received the Davis Cup. The university first enrolled Davis UWC Scholars in 2008.

“The Davis UWC Scholars Program’s long-standing success is a great point of pride for the University of Oklahoma,” said OU president Joseph Harroz Jr. “Davis Scholars exemplify the leadership and global perspectives that strengthen our university community and help drive positive change in the world.”

For many students, the program has been transformative. “Being admitted to OU as a Davis Scholar has been a profound gift for me and my family back home in Liberia,” said Dala Korkoyah, a Davis UWC Scholar majoring in microbiology. “OU’s commitment to UWC students has allowed me to pursue my dreams without financial barriers, and the Davis community here truly feels like a family—supportive, close-knit, and always there with personal guidance whenever I need it.”

Since 2008, OU has received well over $80 million from the Davis UWC Scholars Program to support student scholarships, with program funding for OU expected to surpass $12.9 million for the 2025–26 academic year alone.

“Partner schools are at the heart of our program,” said Phil Geier, co-founder and executive director of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. “We deeply appreciate our partnership with the University of Oklahoma, as it once again demonstrates its leadership in expanding educational opportunities for promising students from all parts of the world.”

The Impact Awards

The Impact Awards are given to individuals or institutions whose contributions have meaningfully improved the enrollment, experience, and success of Davis UWC Scholars. The award recognizes excellence in student advocacy, partnership stewardship, and sustained alignment with the mission and values of the Davis UWC Scholars Program.

Davis UWC Scholars at St. Olaf College

St. Olaf College

St. Olaf College enrolls one of the largest cohorts of Davis UWC Scholars—254 this year, among approximately 3,100 undergraduates—a scale that reflects both institutional commitment and a deeply rooted reputation within the UWC community.

“It’s really all about the student experience,” said Jenny Howenstine, Associate Dean of Admissions and Director of International Recruitment. “My awesome team can recruit all over the world, but it really comes down to the experience of our current Davis UWC Scholars and how they are relaying that back to their UWC campus and national committee.”

“Recruiting and getting students here is just the beginning,” she added. “It takes campus-wide support to build this community.”

Jenny plays a central role in building that support. She works to strengthen connections among UWC students, counselors, and colleagues in Admissions, and has been instrumental in organizing an annual visit to UWC campuses by representatives from multiple Davis partner institutions.

For Davis UWC Scholars, “of course financial aid is very important to many,” Jenny noted, “but there are many other factors that shape the student experience, including a robust international orientation, the ability to stay on campus during breaks and summers, student employment opportunities, internship and career advising, and increasingly complex visa advising during challenging times.

“All of these efforts require a commitment of time and resources from colleagues across campus,” she added, “and I am grateful for everyone who goes the extra mile to support our students.”

Jon Lund

Jon Lund, Luther College

Through his decades as Director of International Admissions at Luther College, Jon Lund supported countless UWC students on their learning journeys—often prioritizing student fit over institutional interest. At Luther, he worked tirelessly to improve the admissions process for international students, especially by making financial aid offers clearer and more accessible.

“Students need to receive enough information about their various college choices so that they can make a good decision,” noted Jon, who served as the college’s liaison with the Davis UWC Scholars Program before retiring last year. “My job was to simply help them navigate a somewhat complicated process.”

For an international student on an American campus, “it takes great courage to throw yourself into study in a culture, context, and sometimes a language that is not your own,” Jon observed. “At UWC, students are challenged and supported as they navigate the International Baccalaureate. By the time Davis UWC Scholars arrived at Luther, they were ready to fly.

“I’m proud of all of the international students who attended Luther over the years,” he added, “and I’m especially proud of our Davis UWC Scholars who, for 20 years, have contributed to the intellectual, civic, and global climate on campus. Year after year, I watched the ways in which UWC students threw themselves into campus leadership, civic engagement, and global advocacy initiatives.

“UWC students arrived at Luther prepared to make a difference. The world desperately needs more people to make a difference.”

Mark Chalkley, UWC Red Cross Nordic

As Senior University Counselor at United World College Red Cross Nordic in Norway, Mark Chalkley makes a point of knowing each of his students extraordinarily well. He also hosts an annual three-day campus visit during which students engage directly with admissions representatives from a number of Davis partner institutions—an experience that demystifies the admissions process and builds long-standing relationships.

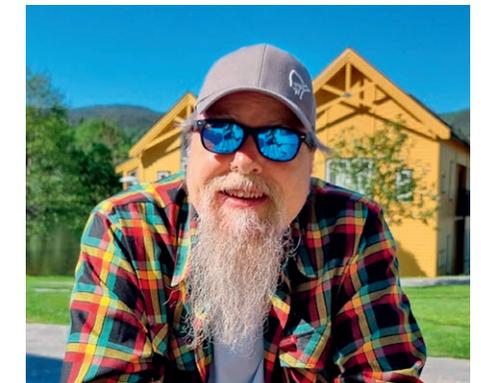

There is no better way, he observed, to learn about a college or university than to speak directly with its representatives. Many of those admissions officers have been coming to Red Cross Nordic for years—“so it’s like having friends visit for the weekend.”

When advising students who are considering Davis partner institutions, Mark looks beyond financial assistance alone.

“For example, there are some institutions that offer honors programs to UWC graduates,” he explained. “I also tell students that they are there not only to learn, but to teach others—outside the classroom—about their own culture, religion, and traditions.”

He frequently shares examples of what UWC graduates go on to achieve. “One of my favorites is a Haitian student who attended MIT after being deferred through an early application, graduated last year, and is now pursuing a master’s degree at Oxford.”

“Mark is a fantastic host, an exceptional student advocate, and a tremendous asset to the UWC campus network,” said Jacob Mnookin, Director of Partnerships and Innovation for the Davis UWC Scholars Program. “Working with him is a pleasure, and the depth of his knowledge of the students he has served at Red Cross Nordic is truly inspiring.”

Mark Chalkley

The Momentum Award

St. Thomas wins for their dramatic rise in first-year enrollment

The University of St. Thomas increased its enrollment of Davis UWC Scholars from two in 2024–25 to 62 in 2025–26. That dramatic year-over-year rise earned St. Thomas the Davis UWC Scholars Program’s first Momentum Award, given annually to the partner institution reporting the largest increase in first-year Davis UWC Scholars enrollment.

“Our mission is all for the common good, and that fits hand in hand with the Davis and UWC programs,” noted Amanda Hager, Director of International Admissions.

“We wanted to make sure we’re unique in what we offer,” said Lori Friedman, Senior International Officer and Executive Director of Global Learning and Strategy. “We have strong STEM and business programs, we’re a little bit larger school in an urban area, and we made sure we could meet the financial need of every Davis UWC Scholar,” beyond the program scholarship.

St. Thomas enrolls approximately 6,000 undergraduate students, representing over 100 countries. Friedman emphasized that the university’s international strategy focuses on impact rather than scale alone. “One of our goals is to increase international enrollment,” Friedman said, “not just for numbers but to bring perspectives and diversify the campus, and really have international dialogues.”

To build awareness among UWC students and develop strong relationships with UWC counselors, St. Thomas representatives visited all 18 UWC campuses worldwide within the university’s first year and a half as a Davis UWC Scholars Program partner.

“That sounds expensive, visiting all 18 UWC campuses,” Friedman noted. “But we did it in a strategic way, in most cases tacking onto existing trips.”

“We really wanted to know what we were getting into,” Hager added, “making sure we could meet the needs and be the right fit

University of St. Thomas Davis UWC Scholars celebrate with President Robert K. Vischer, Jake Mnookin, and campus colleagues as St. Thomas receives the inaugural Momentum Award for many UWC students.”

With 62 Davis UWC Scholars now enrolled, Hager has taken a highly personalized approach to student support. “I’m the personal admissions counselor for every single one,” Hager said. “That’s intentional, so that I have a better grasp of their needs. It allows me to be very quick in answering and supporting them.”

The impact of the Davis UWC Scholars cohort is already being felt across campus. “I’m hearing from faculty and the residence halls that you can tell they’re UWC,” she noted. “They’re natural leaders. They’re experienced, they’re comfortable in the classroom environment, and they’re engaged—with clubs, organizations, in the residence halls, and outside campus.

“They’ve already started to lead initiatives. It’s really cool to watch.”

St. Thomas’s Momentum Award reflects not only a remarkable increase in enrollment, but also a sustained institutional commitment to global access, student support, and partnership with the UWC movement.

Distinguished Partnerships: Recognizing longevity, global reach, and engagement across the UWC movement

The Davis UWC Scholars Program is the world’s largest provider of need-based financial aid for international students. Through our partnerships, we help support more than 4,600 Davis UWC Scholars attending over 100 partner universities across the United States. This program only works because it is a true partnership—one in which our partner universities invest extraordinary time, effort, energy, and resources to recruit, matriculate, and support UWC graduates. To honor that commitment, the information on this page highlights partner institutions whose contributions stand out across three distinct measures: longevity of partnership, geographic diversity of enrolled scholars, and representation from across the UWC movement. Together, these recognitions underscore the many ways in which partners advance the mission and global spirit of the program.

Representation from all 18 UWC Campuses

Achieving representation across the full UWC network reflects the breadth of a partner school’s recruitment efforts and the depth of its engagement with the UWC movement. The institutions listed below stand as models of inclusive partnership and global reach within the program.

Geographic Diversity of Davis UWC Scholars

There are many benefits for partner universities to join the Davis UWC Scholars Program. One of these is the opportunity to recruit and matriculate students from across the globe. This table features the six partner universities whose current Davis UWC Scholars cohorts represent the widest range of countries. These institutions exemplify the global reach of the program and the power of international education to bring together students from around the world. Their campuses reflect a deep commitment to geographic breadth, cross-cultural exchange, and truly international learning environments.

Partner Anniversary Milestones

This list highlights partner universities celebrating milestone anniversaries—five, ten, fifteen, or twenty years—as members of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. These milestones reflect sustained institutional commitments to supporting UWC graduates and to advancing a shared mission of expanding access to global education. Each anniversary represents a long-term investment in partnership, community, and student opportunity.

Former Scholars Deepening Partnerships

Since its founding, the Davis UWC Scholars Program has supported over 17,000 UWC graduates in pursuing undergraduate study at partner universities across the United States. Over time, a number of these former scholars have returned to those same institutions as faculty and staff, creating a powerful full-circle moment for the partnership. In these roles, they help shape academic communities, mentor students, and advance the values at the heart of the UWC mission—extending the program’s impact well beyond their own undergraduate years. This section highlights two such former scholars whose professional paths now deepen and strengthen the Davis UWC Scholars Program’s partnerships in meaningful and lasting ways.

William M. Tarimo

William T. Tarimo (Tanzania, Waterford Kamhlaba UWC of Southern Africa, Connecticut College '12) grew up in Moshi, near Mount Kilimanjaro. After graduating from Waterford, he matriculated to Connecticut College as a Davis UWC Scholar, earning bachelor’s degrees in computer science and mathematics. His undergraduate experience was defined by early engagement in research, particularly in applied robotics, including publishing papers and presenting at conferences—opportunities that proved formative for his academic path. Reflecting on his decision to attend Connecticut College, William notes that he found “a welcoming sense of belonging among the international student community, academic opportunities and rigor, and institutional support,” along with influential early research opportunities within the computer science department.

William T. Tarimo

Following graduation, William entered a PhD program in computer science at Brandeis University, earning his master’s and doctoral degrees in 2014 and 2016. His research focused on educational technology and pedagogy design, resulting in the development of the Computer-Supported Agile Teaching framework, which explores how technology can support transparent and adaptive teaching and learning. Central to this work is the Discovery Teaching platform, a tool he continues to develop and use in both his research and classroom practice.

In 2017, William returned to Connecticut College as an assistant professor of computer science. “Connecticut College has long been a home and a special place to me,” he reflects, noting that his experience as an international student continues to shape his approach to teaching, mentoring, and service. Beyond the classroom, he collaborates with the Walter Commons for Global Study and Engagement and supports initiatives such as Education & I, a resource for international students navigating higher education in the United States.

William remains deeply grateful to the Davis UWC Scholars Program for opening doors that would otherwise have been inaccessible. He credits the program with shaping his commitment to access, global engagement, and service—values he continues to live out through his teaching and mentorship.

Haydee Lindo

Haydee Lindo (Jamaica, Mahindra UWC India '04, Williams College '08) grew up in Montego Bay, Jamaica. After completing UWC in India, she matriculated to Williams College as a Davis UWC Scholar, drawn by what she describes as its “excellent, high-touch liberal-arts education” and the freedom to explore across disciplines. At Williams, Haydee double-majored in mathematics and political science, with concentrations in political theory and international relations, and studied abroad through the Williams–Exeter Program at Oxford. She also immersed herself fully in campus life—exploring dance, stage-managing performance groups, playing rugby, and serving as co-president of the Minority Coalition, a network of student affinity organizations.

Haydee Lindo

Reflecting on her undergraduate experience, Haydee emphasizes the value of intellectual breadth alongside rigor. While her mathematics training laid the foundation for her academic career, she notes that her political science studies were equally formative. “My math degree is most directly connected to what I do now,” she explains, “but I believe my political science degree also makes me a better teacher. The combination made me a deeper and more flexible thinker.” That interdisciplinary grounding continues to shape how she approaches teaching, research, and mentorship.

After graduating from Williams, Haydee worked in management consulting before returning to academia to pursue a PhD in mathematics at the University of Utah. Following the completion of her doctorate, she held a Gaius Charles Bolin Fellowship and then joined the mathematics faculty at Williams College in a tenure-track role. In 2020, she moved to Harvey Mudd College, where she earned tenure in 2024 and now serves as an associate professor of mathematics. That same year, she received the MAA Henry L. Alder Award, a national honor recognizing distinguished teaching in undergraduate mathematics.

In her current role, Haydee conducts theoretical research in commutative algebra and teaches across the undergraduate mathematics curriculum, including advanced courses in her field. She is also co-leading an initiative to build an institute focused on data science for social good—work she describes as “grounded in how I can improve my communities, whether local, regional, or international.”

Haydee remains deeply grateful to the Davis UWC Scholars Program, which supported her education at Williams and connected her to a lasting community of fellow UWC alumni. “The program didn’t just make my education possible,” she reflects. “It helped me keep asking how to live my UWC values beyond UWC—and how even technical work can be part of making the world better.”

With Gratitude

Reflections from Davis UWC Scholars

Each year, Davis UWC Scholars write to Shelby Davis to express their gratitude for the opportunity to pursue a university education in the U.S. made possible through his philanthropy. Shelby personally reads every single letter, and finds them deeply moving. Taken together, these handwritten notes affirm for him—again and again—the purpose and enduring impact of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. In their own words, scholars describe academic discovery, personal growth, and the responsibilities they feel to give back, both on campus and beyond. These letters offer a window into the lived experiences of students from around the world and into the transformative power of access, community, and belief in young people. Collectively, they give voice to a core conviction of the program: that education expands opportunity, fosters mutual understanding across difference, and equips students to engage thoughtfully with the defining challenges of our time. The excerpts that follow are drawn from recent letters written by Davis UWC Scholars.

Shelby and Gale Davis with UWC Costa Rica scholars

Dear Mr. Davis,

Thank you so much for believing in us! You've made my dreams come true, but more importantly, you've allowed and contributed towards me finding friends for life, fall in love with my area of studies and dream higher than anything I could have ever imagined! Thank you for all you do, and know that you are doing such an important and necessary work by investing in education and in the UWC mission."

Sofia Santana, Lake Forest College '26,
Portugal, UWC East Africa

Dear Shelby,

I wanted to thank you for the way you've supported my education. More than the opportunity itself, I've been especially moved by how freely it has been given. That there was never a sense of obligation or expected performance attached is a mark of sincere, true generosity (Kant would applaud!). This dignity has meant more to me than I can easily put into words.

Your support has changed the trajectory of my life and that of my family in very real ways, and I carry that with deep gratitude.

Ebtsam Abdelghani, Lake Forest College '26,
Egypt, UWC Adriatic

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Davis,

I hope this letter finds you both well! For nostalgia's sake, I went into my file archives and read through the other letters that I have addressed to you over the course of the past few years. Given that I'm now well into my fourth and final year of university, it feels quite sentimental to not only reflect on how much I have grown, but also to take the time to acknowledge the support networks that have been integral to my successes throughout my undergraduate career. Having the honor of being a Davis United World College Scholarship recipient has provided me with emotional support through the strong sense of community, of course in addition to the invaluable financial backing.

When I look back on my time at Cornell, I can confidently say that I am proud of all that I have explored and achieved. From establishing myself in a major and career path that genuinely inspires me, to creating lifelong friendships, to doing research abroad in London, I am extremely gratified to have had so many amazing experiences. When I last wrote to you, I was still somewhat in a state of flux as I was in the process of becoming more integrated into the Department of Electrical & Computer Engineering following my switch from civil engineering. Now, I'm excited to share that following a fulfilling combined co-op and internship term, I will be entering a career in the integrated circuit industry as a silicon design engineer at AMD.

In hindsight, the transition of moving thousands of miles away from my family to attend Cornell after living outside the United States for a decade was daunting, but support systems such as the Davis United World College Scholarship ensured that I never felt alone. I want to express my most sincere gratitude for your continued generosity over the past four years—I promise it does not go unnoticed. Thank you, as always, for all your support.

With gratitude

PHILANTHROPISTS HONOR ROLL

The Davis UWC Scholars Program combines the transformational philanthropy of the Davis family with donations from many others to our partner colleges and universities. Given this financial partnership, we are pleased to recognize their generous support for today's scholars and tomorrow's leaders. Each partner school was invited to submit the names of those they would like listed in this report along with the Davises. This effort at donor recognition only scratches the surface of the many who give to their alma maters in support of the financial aid awarded to our scholars. We are grateful to those who are contributing to their schools in this way, and look forward to the continuing growth of this honor roll in the years ahead.

This recognition is arranged by partner school with the information they provided. It captures the growing number of philanthropists captivated by the value of supporting our scholars—and theirs—by investing at their chosen college or university. Some have given to annual funds, indicating their interest in the Davis UWC Scholars Program. Others have given larger amounts ($10,000 or more) toward their alma mater's portion of a scholar's total financial-aid package and have been assigned scholars, sharing naming opportunities with the Davises. A few have given major endowments in support of international scholarships assigned to Davis UWC Scholars and share naming opportunities with the Davises each year. At the heart of the Davis UWC Scholars Program is “giving back,” a trait we strive to see manifested over time in our scholars as they make their way in the world.

UNDERGRADUATES IN ACTION

From Réunion to UNICEF:
Pursuing Social Justice through International Law

From Réunion, a French island near Madagascar, Maellynn Karuranga's (France, UWC Mahindra, Earlham '26) path to international law began with a chance conversation. She became the first Réunionnaise to attend UWC Mahindra in India, where her interest in social justice deepened.

"The Peace and Global Studies major at Earlham really stood out to me," Karuranga says. "I wanted a place where I could build a community like we were able to at UWC, and also a place that would be a small learning community with proximity to the teachers and lots of diversity."

Her journey led to a semester in Thailand, followed by a funded internship with UNICEF in France through Earlham's EPIC Advantage program. There she educated children about eco-citizenship and children's rights, helping organize major events like UNI Day and developing child-friendly ways to communicate the theme "living in a healthy environment."

"I'm very grateful to have the EPIC Advantage," Karuranga says. "I'm a student, and I couldn't have done it without this support." This fall, she's taking Introduction to Diplomacy, connecting classroom learning to her UNICEF experience. "This class will help me interact positively with others, making sure I'm doing so in a diplomatic way. UNICEF really taught me how to shift and adapt who I'm interacting with," she explains.

Karuranga is exploring master's programs in international law and social justice, building on experiences at UWC, Earlham, and beyond.

Bridging Creative Storytelling and the Law

Thunderous applause filled the 400-seat Oklahoma theater after the premiere of a student-made feature film. Azman Abdulla (Maldives, UWC Mahindra, University of Oklahoma '25) served as student producer, coordinating city permits, reviewing contracts, and negotiating deals. As cofounder of Green Light Studios, an exceptionally successful student-led film production venture, Azman played a key role steering this remarkable project.

Azman began his creative career in the Maldives, offering local coffee shops videos in exchange for practical client experience. At OU, he gained deeper technical skills and discovered an unexpected passion: the legal side of filmmaking.

This discovery led him to become one of two pioneer recipients of the new Davis-Geier Comfort Scholarship which provides full funding for a UWC OU graduate to pursue a Juris Doctorate at OU's College of Law immediately after undergraduate completion. Before learning about this scholarship, Azman did not believe that law school was a realistic option for him.

"My favorite part about being a Davis UWC Scholar at OU was the community I was gifted with," Azman reflects. From supportive friend circles to encouraging professors, his community empowered him to exceed his greatest dreams. He graduated with a 4.0 GPA, earned President's and Dean's honor rolls every semester, and received the outstanding senior award for Creative Media Production.

Now a first-year OU Law student, Azman hopes to combine creative and legal expertise to lead a film production company while mentoring upcoming artists. "My experiences taught me to explore beyond my comfort zone," he says, "learning more about the world and navigating its complex challenges."

Blending Technology, Entrepreneurship, and Global Leadership

As the 5-Colleges Campus Director of the Hult Prize in 2024, Prince Bashangezi (Zimbabwe, UWC Southern Africa, Pomona College '27) supported students across the Claremont colleges in applying for start-up funding through a competition partnering with the Clinton Global Initiative. His leadership exemplifies the global citizenship values the Davis UWC Scholars Program cultivates.

“My experience at Pomona continues to be very fulfilling and community-driven,” Prince writes. From co-presiding the African Students Association to mentoring first-years through the International Student Mentorship Program to living in Oldenborg Center Swahili Hall, he has found home while far from Zimbabwe.

Prince’s technical skills have flourished alongside his leadership roles. He has interned as a software engineer at Microsoft for two consecutive summers and received the Robert Day Scholarship at Claremont McKenna College, recognizing strong academic performance and leadership potential. In his free time, he has developed an AI college advisor, bruhh.ai, to give college students a 24/7 personal academic and career advisor.

Building Health Systems that Serve the Most Vulnerable

Cecilia Wallace (USA, UWC-USA, Oberlin College '19) graduated with a biology major and computer science minor, launching a career dedicated to health-care equity and serving vulnerable populations.

"I'd left UWC interested in global problems, communication challenges, and interdisciplinary learning," she reflects. "At Oberlin, I found people with a similar sense of mission and teachers who helped me sharpen my focus and develop writing, science, and systems thinking skills."

At Oberlin, Cecilia served as a writing tutor and course writing associate, edited The Synapse, contributed to The Oberlin Review, and served as Vice Chair of Student Senate.

Following graduation, she joined AmeriCorps at Boston Health Care for the Homeless Program as a case manager for the transgender team, helping patients access gender-affirming care. During the pandemic's peak, she staffed isolation tents and coordinated patient activities at BHCHP's COVID-19 medical shelter, hosting karaoke and creating a daily magazine for patients and staff to share writing and art during lockdown.

Currently a fourth-year medical student at the Ohio State University, Cecilia co-founded Street Medicine at OSU, an organization providing on-site medical care, linkage to services, and advocacy for local unhoused individuals. She also serves on the board of Clinica Latina, a Spanish-speaking free clinic.

"Growing up in rural Michigan where health care was hard to access, then working with people facing housing instability, language barriers, and gender identity stigma, showed me how demographics and financial means determine who gets good care," Cecilia reflects. "Now I'm learning to change that from the inside."

Cecilia is applying for residency in Internal Medicine-Pediatrics, where she will continue working toward more equitable health-care systems.

Preserving the History of Kenya's Indian Diaspora

When Yuvraj Shah's (United Kingdom, Li Po Chun UWC of Hong Kong, Middlebury '26) grandfather migrated from India to Kenya in 1895, he joined more than 35,000 Indians who helped build East Africa's infrastructure. Today, with Kenya's Indian population declining by 1.8% annually to just 85,000, Yuvraj is racing to preserve these stories before they vanish.

"We are at risk of losing the histories and stories of a community which was instrumental in the nation-building of one of Africa's most populous countries," Yuvraj explains.

Awarded a Mellon Foundation Fellowship, Yuvraj traveled to Kenya in summer 2025 to interview Asian Indians and document their migration stories. At Middlebury, he's creating a historical archive to preserve these histories for future generations.

Yuvraj has become a voice for migration and belonging. As the sole student speaker at Middlebury's TEDx event and Opinion Editor for the Middlebury Campus, he writes about preserving cultural heritage while integrating into new communities.

"The migrant can and should grow. The migrant will one day not even be a migrant anymore," he writes. "It is important to allow people to retain their history while integrating into a new space."

His work ensures that Kenya's Indian diaspora contributions—from railway construction to business development—are not forgotten as communities disperse globally.

Preserving Art through Science, Craft, and Community

Rahul Sharma (India, UWC Mahindra, College of Idaho '14) has been awarded a coveted research scholar position at the Metropolitan Museum of Art—an achievement he credits to his formative years in Caldwell, Idaho. Though now an emerging figure in art conservation, Sharma's path wasn't always clear.

"My entire trajectory was shaped during my time at the College of Idaho," he reflects. "I did not know I would go into conservation when I was in Caldwell, but being there among the community, both academic and local, really set me up for what I am doing now."

His journey began when archivist Jan Boles gave him his first camera and studio space. Professor Garth Claassen granted him unrestricted darkroom access. Chemistry professors Dr. Truksa and Dr. Saunders helped him understand the science behind photographic processes, remaining patient even after he accidentally filled a lab with nitric acid fumes. Beyond campus, neighbor Steve Towrey shared vintage photos, while Andy Yee taught him steady brushwork. "The saying is true—it really takes a village," Sharma notes.

"In all honesty, nothing I directly do day to day was taught at the College of Idaho," he admits. "But then, a libera-arts education isn't a professional education. What I learned was how to think." Over time, courses that seemed tangential—Idaho Natural History, sociology, literature—became increasingly relevant to his conservation work.

"I can guarantee you that I would not be where I am today, if it wasn't for the education I received and the people I got to meet while I was there."

From Tanzania to Tech: Expanding Access to Global Opportunity

When Rosalia Mwidege (Tanzania, UWC East Africa, Princeton University '26) arrived at Princeton from Mbeya, Tanzania, she intended to major in economics. With encouragement from UWC and Princeton friends, she switched to computer science—a field she'd never studied—and hasn't looked back.

"My time at Princeton has been both wonderful and memorable, thanks to the strong community of UWC scholars and the diverse opportunities I have been able to explore," Rosalia says.

She joined the Princeton Africa Summit, helping raise $30,000 for a venture competition supporting Africa-founded startups. After her first year, she participated in a Global Seminar at Maseno University in Kenya, then returned to Tanzania to interview young Tanzanians with international education exposure. Their stories inspired her book Dare to Dream Big, a practical guide for students pursuing global opportunities that has sold over 400 copies across Tanzania.

Rosalia secured internships with Intuit Credit Karma and joined Girls Who Invest, gaining knowledge in investment management and accounting. Most recently, she interned at Microsoft as a software engineering intern in Core AI, building a pipeline for detecting customer content from backend logs.

Beyond campus, she works with Ishara, a Ghanaian plastic recycling initiative, helping build a blockchain platform to track waste collection and recycling processes.

"None of my experiences would have been possible without the generous support of the Davis Scholars Program," she reflects. "Today, I feel ready to make a meaningful difference in the world."

Advancing Women's Cardiovascular Health across Sub-Saharan Africa

Henrietta Audrey Ohenewaa Afari (Ghana, UWC Atlantic, Harvard College '11) is transforming cardiovascular care for women across sub-Saharan Africa. After graduating from Harvard College in 2011 with a concentration in psychology, she earned her MD from Harvard Medical School in 2015, determined to bridge global health and clinical excellence.

She honed her skills at Massachusetts General Hospital as a resident and attending physician in internal medicine, then served as a fellow in cardiovascular medicine at Penn Medicine, becoming chief fellow in her final year. Completing her fellowship in summer 2025, Henrietta deepened her expertise in developing equitable strategies for managing heart disease among pregnant women in Ghana and Uganda. Work in Botswana further shaped her commitment to global women's cardiovascular health.

"My goal is to use clinical research and implementation science to inform policy and transform cardiovascular care for women with heart disease in sub-Saharan Africa," she explains.

In October 2025, Henrietta joined the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center as assistant professor, continuing her career at the intersection of academia and clinical care. Her commitment extends beyond patient care to system-level change—she has co-authored articles on reducing health-care provider burnout in low- and middle-income countries and streamlining emergency obstetric care referrals in rural Ghana.

Born and raised in Accra, Henrietta's global perspective was shaped by formative years in Wales and academic pursuits in Boston. "Coming from a United World College, I internalized ideals about effecting positive change," she reflects. "Without the kindness of those who supported me, my dreams of attending Harvard would never have materialized."

Strengthening Humanitarian Medical Response in Crisis Settings

A biophysics and critical diaspora studies double major, Eli Leshner (USA, UWC Thailand, Johns Hopkins University '27) has immersed himself in humanitarian aid research at Johns Hopkins. Beyond coursework and involvement in the running team, gardening club, and Model UN, their work on crisis medical response defines their undergraduate experience.

As a Wilson Research Fellow, Eli conducts research on the medical humanitarian response in Gaza, documenting conditions through interviews with medical professionals and tracking barriers faced by foreign medical teams. Their research examines how these teams interact with local health systems in crisis settings and the impact on sustainability and resilience.

"My time at UWC made me a completely different person," Eli reflects. "It reinforced the power of collaboration and community engagement in developing sustainable, effective solutions."

That understanding drove them to spend a semester in Jordan, studying Arabic and interning with the Jordan Health Aid Society, which operates a clinic in the largest Syrian refugee camp in the country. At Hopkins, they serve on the board of Blue Jay's Perch and recently completed training to become a Court Appointed Special Advocate for children in foster care.

With support from the Obama-Chesky Scholarship for Public Service, Eli will continue their humanitarian research before medical school, focusing on sustainable crisis medical aid delivery.

From First Lines of Code to Microsoft Engineer

Christine Dossa (Benin, UWC Maastricht, Lake Forest College '25), a software engineer at Microsoft, knew that being a Forester meant access to exceptional resources. She proved it spectacularly.

Arriving at Lake Forest planning to study finance, Christine's trajectory shifted after her first HTML course with a professor who made computer science feel "nice and welcoming." From there, everything progressed beautifully. She fully embraced computer science, became a teaching assistant, conducted summer research through the Richter Scholars program, and founded a college chapter of Girls Who Code to inspire women in this historically male-dominated field.

"Lake Forest provided me with the perfect environment to grow academically and professionally," she notes. "From the classroom to career coaching and networking, I was given all the resources to set myself up for success."

Christine made the most of Lake Forest's Career Advancement Center, attending LinkedIn and resume workshops from first year and never missing weekly office hours. Following advice to build extensive LinkedIn connections, she landed two sophomore-year externships—one with CitiBank, another with JP Morgan. During sophomore year, Microsoft recruited her via LinkedIn, leading to two internships and a full-time offer two weeks into senior year.

Christine hopes to visit UWC Maastricht next year to share her journey with current students, to give back to the school that had such a formative impact on her. "My fondest memory of my time at Maastricht was the vibrant community we created, all of us, from all over the world, embracing this experience with open eyes and curiosity. I've grown into a better version of myself, thanks to UWC."

UNDERGRADUATES IN ACTION

Empowering Others through Education, Advocacy, and Storytelling

Gabriela Sarahi Martinez Rodriguez (Mexico, UWC Mostar, Barnard College '28) has built a record of empowering others through education and storytelling. An economics-statistics and education double major, she co-founded Tonacalli with fellow Mexican UWC Mostar graduate Alejandra Montero to amplify the voices of survivors of gender-based violence.

With support from a GoMakeADifference grant, what began as a conversation between two friends evolved into two ongoing initiatives: a prevention and awareness campaign in Mexico for high-school students, and a YouTube series featuring the work and stories of survivor-activists, developed with support from Sanctuary for Families to lay the groundwork for a future documentary.

“Through Tonacalli, I’m reminded that storytelling is one of the most powerful forms of collective healing,” Gabriela reflects.

That commitment to empowerment extends to campus. As a participant in the Financial Well-Being Certificate program at the Francine LeFrak Center, Gabriela quickly advanced to Financial Ambassador. After obtaining financial instructor certification, she co-designed a financial fluency course for international students to ease their transition to Barnard.

Gabriela has also worked with Latinas on the Verge of Excellence (L.O.V.E.), helping design a new program to empower Latinas in STEM. These experiences have deepened her conviction that access to education and resources can transform lives and challenge systemic barriers.

Designing More Equitable Cities through Global Perspective

Jingze Wang (China, UWC Atlantic, Bates College '24), a politics major with a minor in Japanese, had a transformative study-abroad experience in Japan through the Associated Kyoto Program, which reshaped his life's direction entirely. Thinking back on that time, Jingze says, "Studying abroad in Kyoto was the happiest time of my life, and it unexpectedly introduced me to what would become my lifelong passion."

While in Kyoto, Jingze discovered Green Legacy Hiroshima, a global volunteer organization sharing messages of hope through ginkgo trees grown from seeds that survived the 1945 atomic bombing. Determined to bring this mission home, he navigated a complex coordination process to make Bates the first Maine institution to host a survivor tree seedling. Today, Bates stands proudly among 146 partner institutions across 41 countries that have such a survivor tree.

Living in Japan also opened Jingze's eyes to how human-centric urban design—walkable streets and accessible public transit—elevates quality of life. Returning to Lewiston, Maine, he recognized the inequitable transportation challenges facing those without cars. When he learned about Maine Department of Transportation's plans for a commuter bus line connecting Lewiston-Auburn to Portland, Jingze successfully advocated to relocate the campus stop to a central location and the construction of a bus shelter, dramatically improving student access to the city.

These experiences sparked Jingze's passion for urban planning. His senior thesis examined policy diffusion of bike lanes across American municipalities. In September 2025, Jingze joined Harvard Graduate School of Design's Master in Urban Planning program, ready to contribute to creating more equitable, sustainable communities. "At Harvard, I hope to bring international perspectives into every project. The renowned urban planner Jeff Speck once wrote that the greatest barrier to solving complex urban problems is not a lack of creativity, but a lack of broad knowledge of the world's 10,000 great urban places. I'm grateful that my global education, from UWC to Bates, has given me a foundation to pursue better design by drawing on best practices from around the world."

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“At Brown, we are proud to welcome Davis United World College Scholars, who embody our core values, including the pursuit of knowledge and understanding with a commitment to openness and diversity of ideas. Brown’s research addresses complex global challenges—from migration and climate change to public health and the future of democracy. The Davis scholars bring unique lived experiences, collaboration, and cross-cultural understanding to this work. Their contributions strengthen Brown’s mission to prepare graduates who can think critically, act ethically, and engage constructively with the world’s most urgent problems.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“Harvey Mudd College’s partnership with the Davis UWC Scholars Program enriches not only the educational experience of UWC graduates on our campus, but also the academic and social fabric of the college itself. Our Davis UWC Scholars exemplify some of humanity’s most life-giving qualities: empathy, curiosity, and a deep sense of connectedness. Their character and accomplishments advance Harvey Mudd’s mission—where excellence and compassion meet in the service of something much greater: societal well-being, global peace, and a sustainable future. As an institution committed to helping students connect their STEM-focused liberal-arts education to global challenges in powerful and personal ways, we are inspired to see the Davis UWC Scholars bring their leadership and perspective to our community.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“At Concordia College, Davis UWC Scholars have transformed our campus in ways both measurable and immeasurable. Their creativity, curiosity, resilience, compassion, and brilliance shine through in everything they do—in the classroom, in research, in artistic and athletic pursuits, and in countless acts of leadership and service. They raise the level of discourse, inspiring their peers to ask harder questions and to approach learning with humility and boldness. They model global citizenship in ways that align seamlessly with our mission, reminding us daily that education is for the sake of the world. The results are clear: our graduates go on to prestigious graduate programs, competitive fellowships like Fulbright, and purposeful careers around the globe. Beyond the statistics, their presence has deepened Concordia’s culture of empathy and excellence. We are profoundly grateful for the Davis Foundation’s vision and support, which enriches the entire Concordia community.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“In 2025, Wellesley was proud to host a special conference celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Davis United World College Scholars Program. As one of the five founding colleges to partner with the program, we were honored to collaborate with Davis UWC leaders on this event. Our aim was to strengthen our shared commitment to international education, lift up the inspiring stories of our international scholars, and imagine ways to further advance the impact intercultural exchange has had on our campuses and beyond. At Wellesley, our UWC Scholars—more than 330 over the past 25 years—provide a window to the wider world for us all. They come to Wellesley with deep experience in dialogue and bridging difference, the need for which has become increasingly urgent on our campuses and across the United States. We consider it a privilege to help prepare these students to be the global citizens our world so desperately needs.”

“This past spring, as our international students faced an increasingly challenging environment, I issued a campus-wide message stating our steadfast support for them. At St. Lawrence, we strive to create educational opportunities that prepare all of our students for a complex, diverse, and global society. Never has embracing diversity been more important on college campuses, and our 100+ Davis UWC Scholars play such a critical role in helping our Laurentian community understand what diversity really means. They do this every day by sharing their unique intercultural experiences, living out their UWC ideals, and demonstrating their resilience, intellectual curiosity, and passion to contribute to the greater good. St. Lawrence Davis UWC Scholars enrich our institution in immeasurable ways, and we are deeply grateful for their vibrant presence in our campus and alumni community.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“At Union College, we recognize that the presence of international students enriches every facet of our campus community—from the classroom to the residence halls, from student organizations to the broader cultural life of the college. Our investment in international education stems from a deeply held belief that a global perspective is essential to a liberal-arts education in the 21st century. The Davis United World College Scholars Program plays a vital role in advancing our international vision at Union. Through this visionary partnership, we bring some of the most talented, globally minded students from across the UWC network to our campus. These scholars arrive with a shared commitment to cross-cultural understanding, peace building, and academic excellence—values that align perfectly with Union’s mission. Their presence on campus is transformative: they contribute fresh perspectives, challenge assumptions, and inspire deeper engagement with global issues. The Davis UWC Scholars are exceptional students, leaders, mentors, and bridge builders who help foster a more interconnected and compassionate campus culture.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“Over the past several years, I’ve gained a deeper understanding of the United World Colleges mission through conversations both on Macalester’s campus and at UWC campuses around the world. And I see why, for so many UWC students over the years, Macalester is exactly the right fit for their next step—a place where they can build on an academic and personal foundation shaped so strongly by their UWC education. In so many ways, Macalester and the Davis UWC Scholars Program are kindred in their missions and values. We share a commitment to academic excellence. We believe deeply in the power of fostering community from difference. And we are dedicated to building a more just and peaceful world together.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“Though I have only recently begun my tenure as president of Middlebury College, the remarkable impact of our Davis UWC Scholars is already vividly clear to me. These students embody a global perspective, a deep commitment to dialogue across difference, and an unyielding drive to serve and lead—values that resonate deeply with Middlebury’s mission. In classrooms, residence halls, and campus initiatives, Davis UWC Scholars enrich our community with their diverse experiences and perspectives. They challenge us to think more broadly and act more boldly. I am deeply grateful for the Davis family’s visionary support, which not only opens doors for these exceptional students but also strengthens and expands the fabric of our institution. We are proud to be a partner in this transformative program.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“College of the Atlantic has had the good fortune, and honor, to host Davis United World College Scholars on our campus since the founding of the program over a quarter century ago. The relationship has been nothing short of transformative for our small college. Davis UWC Scholars compose more than 20% of our student body, and their impact in our classrooms, in our participatory college governance, and in the broader community beyond campus benefits us all. We are so grateful for the daily ways that these students help make COA a truly globally oriented education. We thank the Davis UWC Scholars organization for creating and sustaining this forward-thinking, life-changing program and look forward to continuing this vibrant partnership that supports students from around the globe to follow and bring their best ideas to life.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“Thank you for your continued support of the remarkable students in the Davis United World College Scholars Program at Yale. With their wide-ranging perspectives, leadership abilities, and strong commitment to global service, these scholars enhance the learning environment for all members of our campus community. Through the ongoing dedication of our faculty members, students, staff, and alumni, Yale remains steadfast in its pursuit of deeper human understanding, innovative solutions to global challenges, and a strong sense of shared responsibility. The Davis UWC Scholars are a vital part of these efforts. Their distinct backgrounds and international outlooks play a key role in preparing future leaders to meet the demands of a rapidly changing world. As president of Yale University, I am committed to nurturing a university community grounded in mutual respect and a culture of understanding. We are grateful for your partnership in this important endeavor.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“As one of the country's largest women's liberal-arts colleges, we could not offer an education that prepares students for lives of global citizenship without our partnership with the Davis United World College Scholars program. We have come to learn that American students become more sophisticated and nuanced in their thinking when they learn side by side with students from other countries, and international students learn more about American culture, politics, and people when they have the opportunity to study on American campuses. We are both thrilled and proud to be continuing our relationship with the Davis UWC Scholars Program, and see this program as one that is not only beneficial for Smith's campus but important for the future of leadership and citizenship worldwide.”

PRESIDENTS' PERSPECTIVES

“It is more important than ever that Lake Forest College recruit, enroll, and support the wonderful students who join us from United World College campuses around the world. We remain committed to bringing these diverse, creative, inspiring scholars to our campus. Lake Forest College’s small size, just under 2,000 students, means we can individually work with each and every scholar that joins the Forester family, and this starts before they even arrive on campus. Davis UWC Scholars shine at Lake Forest. They advocate for important topics, actively participate in research, lead organizations, are varsity athletic team captains, and challenge us all to be better. Lake Forest is a more vibrant, unique institution thanks to the presence of our nearly 300 Davis UWC Scholars.”

Applying to Become a Partner School

The Davis UWC Scholars Program reviews requests on an annual basis from colleges and universities interested in becoming partner schools. To be considered, a letter of request from the institution's president should be submitted, explaining in detail why their school would be a good candidate for the program. An important prerequisite for a candidate school is to have already made recruiting trips to several of the UWCs (whether in person or virtually), have a proven track record of successfully recruiting and matriculating graduates from United World College schools at the time of application, and are committed to meeting full demonstrated need-based aid for all admitted UWC graduates. It's essential that applicant schools are in alignment with the Davis UWC Scholars Program's key goal of the internationalization of the U.S. undergraduate experience by building clusters of globally aware UWC graduates on their domestic campuses (offshore campuses and affiliates are ineligible). Letters may be submitted at any time during the academic year, but no later than May 31, as decisions are finalized by August each year.

The Davis UWC Scholars Program makes grants to institutions only—not to individual students. Grants are awarded based on financial need to eligible United World College graduates enrolled at one of the partner schools.

How Other Philanthropists Can Invest

Philanthropists who want to help bring the world to U.S. campuses—especially their own alma maters—are invited to become a part of the Davis UWC Scholars Program. Philanthropist Shelby Davis created the program 25 years ago, and since then it has grown to become the world’s largest international scholarship program for undergraduate study.

Over 100 American colleges and universities have been selected to partner with this major philanthropic investment to transform American campuses by providing scholarships to students from more than 164 countries to attend these schools for their undergraduate degrees.

The scholarships are awarded to students who are proven winners. As 15- or 16-year-olds, they won national competitions in their home countries that allowed them to complete their last two years of high school at one of the premier United World College schools. They have demonstrated their leadership, they are informed and engaged in world issues, and they have been admitted to some of the finest institutions of higher learning in the U.S. Everyone at these campuses—students, faculty, staff, and the surrounding community—benefits from this exposure and the global networking that will inevitably link our country’s future leaders with those of many other nationalities.

The Davis United World College Scholars Program is a genuine partnership—Davis philanthropy provides need-based aid for up to four years of undergraduate study to each of the partner schools. Grant funds are awarded to our partner schools in support of their own financial aid awards for individual students and never in direct support of particular beneficiaries. As partner schools are expected to meet each of their scholars’ full demonstrated need, these scholarship packages are often quite substantial—making your additional philanthropy most welcome.

Other philanthropists have already chosen to participate. They have invested in a proven and exciting global program by co-funding a portion of these scholars at their alma maters or at other partner schools of particular interest to them. This opportunity exists for you as well. Share a naming opportunity for a scholar and their four-year undergraduate degree. Your philanthropy, in concert with Davis philanthropy and your favorite school, will help create a three-way partnership for a better world.

For more information, please visit www.davisUWCscholars.org.

“Our idea is to instill the UWC mission of making education a force to unite people, nations, and cultures into the lives of everyone on our partner school campuses — in the labs and classrooms, on the playing fields, in the residence halls, and in the surrounding communities.”
